Smith Denies Murder Charge In Court

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 23 (AP)—Edgar Smith, 23, denied on the witness tand today that he killed Victoria Zielinski, 15, and said he lied when he gave an incriminating statement to police upon his arrest.

On trial for murder, the ex-Marine—a handsome clean-cut looking father of an infant—gave a ringing "I did not, sir" when his attorney asked him if he had killed the schoolgirl.

Later, under cross-examination, he was asked about the 60-page unsigned statement he made to police.

"I lied and made that story up out of my imagination," he calmly told Prosecutor Guy W. Calissi.

"Although some answers were incriminating, you made them up?" asked Calissi.

"Yes."

Reason

Again and again, both in direct testimony and cross-examination, Smith gave his reason: He was afraid of threats made by an ex-pal, Donald Hommell, whom he has sought to incriminate.

"I was afraid if I squealed of what would happen to my wife and baby," he said, asserting that Hommell had threatened them.

Replying to questions from his attorney, John E. Selser, Smith denied that the former Wayne County, Pa., girl had been dead in his presence or that he was the man who struck her with rocks in the lonely gravel pit where she was slain on March 4.

The blonde, trim Smith spoke confidently, but occasionally he tugged at his chin nervously.

Selser held up the girl's blood-soaked sweater and asked if Smith had ever seen it before.

"I did not," the defendant replied.

It was the second day on the stand for him. Both days he repeated that Hommell, 21, a drug store clerk, was with the girl in the Mahway gravel pit when he saw her last.

Hommell denied Monday that he had ever been in the pit and said he could account for every movement he made that fatal night.

As spectators stood four deep in the courtroom today, Calissi attempted to cast doubt on Smith's story that he was afraid of Hommell.

He said that when Smith was taken to the gravel pit upon his arrest a few days after the Ramsey girl's slaying, he had suggested that police make Hommell "the fall guy."

Calissi asked if Smith weren't afraid at that time. Smith said he wasn't.

Calissi asked if Smith hadn't told him once that he thought Hommell might have been kidding. Smith replied that at one time he wasn't sure.

In his testimony yesterday, Smith said he picked up the girl as she was walking home from a friend's house. He gave this version:

The drove to the gravel pit to talk at the girl's suggestion. There she told him his wife was two-timing him. He slapped her and she left the car. He got out of the car to see how to back from the pit.

Suddenly he heard a commotion and the girl showed up, battered and bleeding, in the company of Hommell. Then, Smith continued, Hommell said the girl had fallen and that he would take her to a doctor.

Hommell has denied the whole story.

Postal Rates Bill Advances Big Step

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — The Eisenhower administration bill to raise postal rates advanced an important step forward with approval by the House Post Office Committee today.

Among other things the cost of a three-cent letter would go to four cents.

Chairman Murray (D-Tenn) announced the approval of the bill by a "decisive majority" and said he would try to get it on the House floor next week.

The House passed such a bill last year but it never got out of a subcommittee in the Senate.

This year's measure would raise postal charges an estimated 462 million dollars in the year beginning July 1 and the total annual increase would climb to 527½ million dollars by 1961 on the basis of present volume of mail.

Stages

The House committee has been voting in stages on the bill. The most important raise—on first-class letters and airmail letters—was voted by the committee May 7.

President Eisenhower asked for the increases to cut into the annual deficit of the Post Office, which is estimated at 650 million dollars in the new fiscal year. Eisenhower's budget, now going through Congress, anticipates the raises will be voted.

If the bill is finally passed, the following raises will go into effect July 1:

First-class—letters to 4 cents per ounce. Post cards and drop letters from 2 to 3 cents. Drop letters are those mailed to post offices where there is no local delivery and residents pick up their mail at the post offices. Airmail letters 7 cents per ounce. Airmail cards to 5 cents.

Second Class

Second-class — Magazines and newspapers, four successive annual 15 per cent raises.

Third-class— Mostly advertising matters, a two-step increase to 3 cents for the first two ounces per ounce; and to 2 cents this year to 2.5 cents by July 1, 1959, on the bulk minimum rate for circulars and merchandise.

The Post Office Department has predicted that the only reduction in volume that these higher rates would bring about would be in third-class mail and that would be only temporary.

The question of raising postal rates is separate from the controversy over how large an appropriation Congress should grant the department.

Three Interests To Split Cost For Police

BANGOR—Union, company and borough spokesmen agreed tentatively yesterday to split the cost of additional policemen for this strike harried borough yesterday.

Central point arousing need for police protection is the strike of workers at the Blue Ridge Textile Co. The possibility of sharing cost of spare police officers was concurred in by Joseph Rader, representing the Textile Workers Union of America; Edmund Turtzo, attorney for Blue Ridge and Bangor Burgess Hayden Pritchard.

Need for more police was emphasized by Pritchard at a 4:30 p.m. meeting held by spokesmen for both sides before President Judge William Barthold, Northampton County Court.

Unable

Pritchard told the court that he had tried to get new policemen at $10 a day but had been unable to secure them. County sheriff William Hontz said that he could get two or more additional patrolmen but Turtzo said the cost would not be borne by the county in his opinion. It was then that the three representatives said they felt costs could be shared.

Turtzo said at the close of the meeting that "all the company is interested in is avoiding any recurrence of violence" in the strike. Alleged incidents of violence broke out over the past weekend.

Pritchard emphasized that a "round-the-clock" patrol of borough streets is absolutely necessary to the preservation of law and order in Bangor if the strike continues.

Nixon Backs Ike's Aid Budgets

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Vice President Nixon went down the line tonight for President Eisenhower's defense and foreign aid budgets.

"I believe that they are necessary for our survival and that substantial cuts in the amounts we have requested will jeopardize not only our safety, but our chance for victory in the world struggle," Nixon said in a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Yosko Attacks State Blue Laws

HARRISBURG, May 23 (AP) — Some of the so-called "Blue Laws" of 1794 today were criticized by a Democratic senator as "obsolete, ridiculous, unenforcable and mockery to justice."

Sen. Yosko (D-Northampton) made the claims in a resolution calling for a Joint State Government Commission study of the laws which prohibit most types of business and other operations on Sunday in Pennsylvania.

Mount Bethel Woman Suffers Injuries In Auto Accident

BANGOR — Mrs. Gloria Rice, 26, of Mount Bethel, a telephone operator in the Bangor Exchange, was injured in an automobile accident on the Bangor-East Bangor road, in the vicinity of the Exalite Corp. Plant late last night.

According to Bangor police officers Walter Heard and Sherwood Holland, Mrs. Bellis claimed she was forced off the road while driving a 1954 Dodge sedan toward East Bangor.

The car, presumably was forced off the left side of the road, went over an embankment 20 feet into a creek bed, where it hung suspended on the guard fence it broke through.

Her cries for help were heard by Arthur Catino of Roseto, a passing motorist, who with the assistance of an unidentified motorist, removed Mrs. Rice through the car's broken windshield.

Police reported that the car was near a total wreck.

Extent of Mrs. Rice's injuries were undetermined at midnight last night. She was under the care of Dr. Floyd Hess.

U.S. Believed Working On Agreement

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The United States is reported working for a "first step" disarmament treaty with Russia and other nations which could lead to pledges by nonatomic countries against acquiring nuclear weapons.

The plan also envisions a small cut in armaments by Russia and the Western powers, especially of heavy weapons, missiles and planes capable of delivering atomic-hydrogen bombs.

Countries would turn over weapons they agreed to cut from their armed forces to specified inspection depots which would be supervised by a United Nations organization.

The agreement would initially be concluded by the nations now represented at the London disarmament talks: Russia, the United States, Britain, Canada and France. But it would be open to other nations which wished to join, provided they pledged not to further complicate the world arms picture by seeking to manufacture or acquire atomic-hydrogen weapons.

Morse Blasts Program

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Sen. Morse (D-Ore) led a sharp attack on the long-range aspects of President Eisenhower's foreign aid program today. He declared they involved "a dangerous extension of arbitrary executive power."

County Medical Society Honors Dr. Nina Price

By Leonard Randolph

DR. NINA PRICE is a grey-haired, gamin-faced woman with dancing bright eyes and a heart capable of incorporating most of Monroe County.

In the past 50 years, as a matter of fact, her heart—through selfless devotion to the profession she chose—has done almost that.

Last night Monroe County Medical Society, local service clubs and an estimated 100 persons filed into the ballroom of the Penn Stroud Hotel to pay homage to "Dr. Nina" as one of the last of a rapidly-vanishing category in American medicine—the genuine "family" doctor.

It was an "unadvertised," private affair. And when the program was half finished one of the speakers provided the main reason for that:

"We know if we noised this around there wouldn't be an auditorium in Monroe County large enough to hold all the people who would want to come to pay tribute to Dr. Price," he said.

It was an affectionate, openly-sentimental occasion. Speaker after speaker walked to the front table and claimed close and loving kinship with the small, alert woman in the place of honor.

A half-century of hard work and devotion to duty had made the night possible. It took a good sense of humor (on "Dr. Nina's" part) to balance the seriousness and respond to the jokes told by others.

Nina Price came through the broad, open double doorway into the ballroom at 7:00. Her family had told her they were taking her out to dinner. She looked in the large ballroom, peered at the men and women seated formally at the ables and said:

"There must be a mistake. There are people already eating in here."

It is characteristic of Dr. Price that she still had no real inkling of what was about to happen, even though her fellow doctors, the nurses and women's organizations have talked of little else (but not openly and never in front of her) for the past month. One of the doctors summed it up this way:

"Nina begins each day with a bunch of things to do. She sets out to get them done and she thinks of very little else all through the day. She sees her patients without fail, cooks, drives through both towns on her way to one meeting or another—but she never stops to wonder what it is that other people are talking about. She has a lot of things on her mind all the time—and she gets every last one of them done."

Much of the humor in last night's testimonial was rooted in this "on-the-go" attitude that is distinctly a part of Dr. Price—so much so, most of the speakers were at pains to point out, that "Nina doesn't even take her hat off when she's doing her housework." Dr. Nina laughed at that, as she did at the rest of the good-natured ribbing.

Her penchant for hats—all kinds of hats, but preferably hats with bright, full-petaled flowers and sunlighted colors—was a main feature of the program. Two hats were presented as gifts by admiring persons representing groups or (in the case of Frank LaBar) an individual with a personal notation. Dr. Nina sat quietly at the table, accepted the hats and tried each of them on.

LaBar's gift was a pink straw hat with a high crown of fresh-looking garden flowers. It matched the pink chiffon of the guest of honor's dress "perfectly", LaBar noted with satisfaction. The second hat came from the Business and Professional Women's Club through its president, Mrs. Lulu Harvey who also was representing the Soroptimists. It was powder blue, big and "beautiful", Dr. Nina exclaimed when she opened the Schiaparelli box and tried it on, turning it slightly and typically with a smile.

There were other presents. From Dr. Evan Reese, representing the Medical Society, came a plaque dedicated to Dr. Price by the Pennylsvania Medical Society "commemorating 50 years of service in medicine in this State" and, from the local chapter a silver tray inscribed to Dr. Price.

From the Exchange Club of East Stroudsburg, which gave its annual "Golden Deeds" award to Dr. Price in 1952, Horace G. Walters presented greetings and read the "Deeds" citation from the club book.

From the Lions Club of the Stroudsburgs through Dr. Paul Maxwell; the Kiwanis Club through Elwood Hintze and the Rotary Club through Ted Hoffman came citations each of them praising her for her "distinctive, unselfish efforts in the interest of the advancement of our communities", her "philantrophic attitude" and her "dauntless energy."

Tannersville To Be Anchor For East

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Keystone Shortway, to cross Pennsylvania between Stroudsburg and Sharon, today won long-awaited approval of the Bureau of Public Roads for inclusion in the federal interstate road system.

Bertram Tallamy, federal highways administrator, announced approval in the cross-state super-highway, in a telegram to Joseph J. Lawler, Pennsylvania secretary of highways.

An alternate rpoposal for the highway—which would have rerouted the road from the Lock Haven-Williamsport, Pa., area off toward Port Jervis, N. Y., rather than the vicinity of Stroudsburg—was rejected, George Williams, assistant commissioner for engineering, said.

While Tallamy's announcement reelected a very general description of the route, he did point out that the recommendation of the department of highways of Pennsylvania had been approved.

The only reccommendation in Washington fixes two basic termini. The western terminus is in the vicinity of Sharon. The eastern terminus of the stortway in the vicinity of Tannersville.

These two basic points are also part of the original and a supplementary report filed with the bureau of public roads with the approval of the highway department by the Michael Baker Jr. Inc., consulting engineers in charge of Keystone Shortway studies, Rochester, Pa.

"It was a matter of a few million dollars difference in total cost," Williams told a newsman. "Since the state had strongly urged that the original proposal be accepted, we went along with it."

The cost estimate for the Sharon-Stroudsburg route, as prepared by consultants for the Commonwealth, Williams said, was 289 million dollars. The alternate route, which would have headed traffic toward New England rather than New York City, would have cost an estimated 271 million, he said.

To rebuild U. S. Route 6 to meet requirements of the 41,000-mile federal road-building program, Williams said, would have cost 281 million dollars, according to figures submitted by the state.

In 1947 a route in the general locality of Route 6 was designated a part of the federal interstate network. It was at the request of Gov. Leader and the state Highways Department that the route redesignation was made. The bureau's decision had been awaited since last summer.

Advocates of the Keystone shortway and of retaining the Route 6 area designation had taken turns through the months in pressing their claims with bureau officials.

The conception of a superhighway blazing new trails cross the forests and hills of northern Pennsylvania came in the days of the New York World's Fair in 1938-39.

In 1955, the State Legislature authorized construction of the shortway as an extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike system. Other extensions had priority, however, and nothing was done immediately about the Shortway.

Later it was suggested that the shortway be substituted for Route 6 as northern Pennsylvania's link in the federal network.

Approval of the Shortway means the federal government will pay 90 per cent of the cost of the toll-free, limited access road. Completion, however, is not expected before 10 to 13 years.

Construction of the Shortway will not mean abandonment of Route 6. It will be retained in the federal aid primary road system and will be improved as a scenic route with the federal government and state each paying 50 per cent of the cost.

Tallamy's announcement met with the hearty approval of a number of Pennsylvania congressmen.

Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa) said the road could help bring new industry to economically depressed areas in his district.

Rep. Walter (D-Pa) hailed it as "great news" which has been "long awaited."

Tallamy's telegram to Lawler and other interested persons said the Shortway "will extend from a point on the Ohio - Pennsylvania line where adequate connections can be made to the routing in the vicinity of Youngstown, easterly to

Thunderstorms Drench Much Of Nation

By The Associated Press

THUNDERSTORMS and scattered showers drenched much of the nation Thursday, and occasional outbursts of violent winds and rains pummelled northern and central sections of Texas.

A tornado ripped through Winters, south of Abilene in central Texas, damaging an oil rig and injuring at least one person.

Heavy rains in southeastern Missouri and Arkansas sent more streams shooting out of their banks. Harviell, a town of 200 five miles south of Poplar Bluff, Mo., was isolated by rampaging waters of Cane Creek. The rising waters forced evacuation of some homes in the Missouri-Arkansas storm area.

The heaviest rainfall was reported in a band from eastern Oklahoma, northeast Texas, Arkansas, southern Missouri, southern Illinois and Indiana and the western two-thirds of Kentucky.

Flash floods hit southern Illinois and in two cities—Harrisburg and Marion—about 60 families were evacuated from their homes. A U. S. Weather spokesman at Cairo said, however, that the Ohio, Wabash and Mississippi Rivers should be able to handle the runoff.

Showers also were scattered over the western third of the country. Thunderstorms ranged over Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and southern California, and in the Gulf and Southeastern States.

Temperatures across the nation ranged from 90 degree readings in the Southeast to 55 and 60 in the Far West. Cool air in the plains and Mississippi Valley held temperatures down to the 50s and 60s.

Siamese Twins Separated In Four-Hour Operation

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 23 (AP) — The Freeman Siamese twins, born face to face and joined at the abdomen, were cut apart today in a four-hour operation at North Side Hospital.

The team of doctors, including four surgeons, called the operation successful and said they foresee no difficulties unless there is an infection or excess bleeding in the severed liver. That was the only organ which the boys shared.

Barring complications, the hospital said, frail Mrs. William Freeman, 23, who weighs less than 100 pounds, may be able to take her two boys home in a little more than two weeks.

The boys, James Edward and John Nelson, were delivered by caesarean section April 26.

Members of the team of 10 doctors and five nurses—all from Youngstown — had prepared for the operation by studying color films of a similar operation made recently at Hammersmith Hospital in London.

Salesman

Freeman, a furnace salesman, and his wife also were shown the films so they would know what their children were going through.

Color films also were made of today's operation.

The hospital said surgeons ran into difficulty when they found the connection at the liver was larger than had been expected. The connection was so large the doctors spoke of the separation as "dividing a common liver." That was the major part of the operation.

The doctors said the most difficult phase, however, was administering the anaesthetic. Three anaesthesiologists were on hand to help out.

Otherwise, the doctors said, the operation went off about as expected and the condition of the the twins remained satisfactory throughout.

Freeman, who is in his early 30s, went to the hospital early this morning before the operation was to begin. But newsmen were unable to find him during or immediately after the operation.

Wilson Fights Against Cuts In Budget

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Puugent as ever, Secretary of Defense Wilson told senators today that proposed defense fund cuts would snatch away President Eisenhower's cards and chips in the "international poker game" of disarmament.

He cautioned against "gambling unwisely" with national security by risking reductions in military outlays on uncertain hopes the world situation will improve.

Allusion

Backed by the Pentagon's high command, Wilson told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee: "I think this is an awful poor time to take the cards and chips away from the President, Foster Dulles and Harold Stassen when they are engaged in this international poker game."

This was an allusion to the recessed East-West disarmament talks in London in which Stassen is the chief U.S. negotiator.

Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, supporting Wilson, testified that large cuts in the military budget "would risk the security of the nation and the free world."

Good Morning!

AFL-CIO Cracks Down On Unions

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The AFL-CIO Executive Council today cracked down on three unions involved in welfare fund scandals.

The council suspended the 85,000-member Laundry Workers Union pending formal expulsion at the federation's next convention in December.

The council also put two other unions — the Allied Industrial Workers, with 75,000 members, and the Distillery Workers, with 30,000—on a year's probation during which AFL-CIO representatives will "monitor" their operations.

Some Steps

All three unions had taken some steps toward meeting AFL-CIO requirements for a clean-up after a Senate committee turned up alleged welfare funds frauds two years ago. The committee was headed by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill).

The council said it was completely dissatisfied with the response of the Laundry Workers and therefore suspension and eventual ouster from federation ranks was warranted. It said it was only "partially" satisfied with corrective steps taken by the other two, hence the probationary period.

In the case of the Laundry Workers, AFL - CIO President George Meany said hearings before the Senate committee showed nearly a million dollars in union members' insurance funds had been in custody of Eugene C. James, now resigned secretary-treasurer of the Laundry Workers. But Meany said that James, never indicted in the case, still is a union member and apparently manipulated a recent Laundry Workers convention.

Sam J. Byers retired as union president at the convention.

Commissioners Claim Study On Tax Equalization Complete

Expect Bid Advertising In 30 Days

By Leonard Randolph

COUNTY Commissioners this week said that a "study" of the amount of work done on the tax equalization program is now "absolutely complete."

The study has been made, at Commissoiners request, by George Brands, chief assessor and J. Joseph McCluskey, a local attorney working wih L. A. Achterman, County solicitor.

Walter Melnikoff, chairman of a County Parent-Teachers Assn. Council sub-committee appointed to meet with commissioners, said last night that commissioners had told him:

That they will be ready to advertise for bids on completion of the job "within 30 days."

Solicitor Achterman said last night that this certainly is a broad estimate. Achterman said he would "need only a day or so to look over the report before we can advertise for bids."

The solicitor said that although the study is complete a formal written report has still not been finished. He said he could not act until this is done.

Commissioners and Achterman have taken the stand that they must know how much work has been completed before they advertise for bids on finishing the assessment revision program required by law.

Local attorneys, however, have taken exception to this stand. They maintain, in contacts with this reporter, that no matter what the county study shows on work previously done "any firm which bids on the job will still come in and conduct its own study of work already completed before they'll bid."

One attorney, who didn't want to be named, told The Record last night: "No firm is going to submit a blind bid on completing this job. They'll come in and make their own survey anyway, so there's no connection between making the county-appointed study and getting the job finished."

Melnikoff said that all three commissioners agreed that the survey of work done by John Aicher Associates and J. L. Jacobs Co. is now "absolutely complete."

But commissioners told him that "nothing will be done on the program to help local school district this year," Melnikoff said.

All three commissioners—John R. Lesoine, chairman and Willard Quick, both Democrats, and W. Adolph Rake, the minority Republican commissioners—were also in agreement that the program "will be completed by the last of 1958", Melnikoff said, "and no sooner."

Previously commissioners had told county school directors that they hoped the program would be finished by January of 1958. That, orginally, was the State deadline for completion of tax equalization systems in fourth to eighth class counties.

The legislature recently put off the deadline on the State-mandated law. In a controversial move which was strongly opposed by some legislators, they set the deadline date at January, 1959—a delay of a full year.

Melnikoff said that two commissioners—Lesoine and Quick—told him they are in "firm agreement" that if local assessors want to raise assessments to an appropriate one-third of market value they (the commissioners) will be "glad to request that they do so."

The PTA sub-committee chairman said that Rake abstained from comment on this matter. Rake has refused, in the past, to take any action one way or the other on any vote involving tax equalization.

Lesoine and Quick reiterated their stand that the commission does not "control" local assessors, however and that they cannot "compel" them to take "any action," Melnikoff said.

Citizens Committee Continues 'A' Attack

By Bill Berry

"A CHEAPER and better highway," maintained Arthur Trogner, "can be built along the proposed plan 'F' route."

Trogner, who is the chairman of the Citizens' Committee, spoke before an open meeting of the committee last night at the East Stroudsburg Junior High School. About 75 vitally interested spectators listened attentively to Trogner and Edwin Buck, a member of the executive committee as they discussed the merits of their proposed route for the highway-bypass for the recently approved Sharon-Stroudsburg Thruway.

"This was supposed to be an open meeting," he stated, "and we invited the advocates of the plan 'A' to speak this evening. But they haven't attended."

"Further," he charged, "they don't want to discuss the route which so vitally affects the lives of residents of Monroe County. They want to force it through with a minimum of debate and publicity."

When confronted by a member of the audience as to who these parties are, he refused to answer.

The bulk of the attack on plan "A" by Trogner and Buck centered around the charges that it is outmoded and dangerous to run a major highway through a city. "In fact," said Trogner, "the engineer who has approved these conceded that the modern manner is to circumvent the municipalities, but that Stroudsburg is a different situation." The uniqueness, it developed, was that there was an attempt in the minds of the planners to run the local traffic into the main-stream of highway traffic.

"This, too, will not work," Trogner demonstrated, "because this is a 'limited access' road." In other words, the cars cannot enter and exit at will, because there are only a few designated interchanges, means of egress and ingress.

Further, Buck maintained that the charge that plan "A" is less expensive than plan "F"—which circumvents the municipality—is preposterous. "It would necessitate the building of an additional highway from Snydersville, to connect route 209 with the bypass, an expenditure of $4,500,000 above and beyond the cost of the bypass itself in order to qualify for the 90 per cent Federal subsidation."

"And this," added Trogner, "will not be subsidized in reality, because the citizens of the area must make up the difference in the taxable real estate by paying heavier taxes."

The allegation that plan "F" was longer in distance than "A" was dispoved by Trogner as he demonstrated on a slide-projected map that the distance of the two proposed bypasses was identical—without the additional highway which is necessitated by plan "A."

Even in the matter of the proposed accesses on the respective plans, Buck purports that his are the more logical, "and it keeps the trucks out of the residential areas, and the cars off of Main Street." In addition, he maintained that theirs are more plentiful and provide more logical access to the area.

Only a quarter of the families will be displaced under Plan "F," according to Trogner. Buck added: "It is not a pleasant sight to see 30 families, searching for homes in an area where realty has suddenly become dear."

When pressed during the question period, he stated that the only person who seems to be in favor of the proposed bypass is an engineer. He then quoted from the Engineering News-Record—a trade publication—to this effect: "Highways are too important to leave to highway engineers." This was a quote attributed to John T. Howard, associate professor of city planning at MIT.

The Delaware Water Gap group, led by C. E. Shafer and Steve Matos, spoke out against both plans, advocating either of the earlier routes. Both "A" and "F"—although the former more than the latter—virtually strangle the Gap and Shawnee.

Trogner closed the meeting, which was moderated by the Rev. Harold C. Eaton, of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, with an entreaty to write to the governor in favor of plan "F." The plans have been filed with the State Highway Department, and a copy with the Bureau of Public Roads.

Flash Storm Hits County

HEAVY rainfall, mixed with hail and a brilliant display of lightning, fell across Monroe County late last night.

Except for power interruptions, the damage was confined to broken tree limbs and overflowing storm sewers, a check revealed.

The storm broke shortly before 10 p.m. Hail fell in Stroudsburg and scattered other sections. The rain continued for more than an hour.

Williams pointed out that the approval was of merely the general routing of the road. Exact details still remain to be ironed out in the long-range project.

Although the alternate plan of veering the road off in the direction of Port Jervis, N. Y., was rejected, another interstate route remains on the books connecting Harrisburg, Hazleton, Wilkes-Barre-Scranton, Port Jervis and Danbury, Conn.

County Medical Society Pays Tribute To Work Of Dr. Price

by Arlington Williams, a past president. A life membership in the General Hospital Auxiliary was presented by Mrs. Gilbert Barthold. Praise came also from Mrs. Thomas I. Metzgar, Anna Logan Society; Mrs. Claude Leister, Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs; orchids from the Medical Auxiliary; from Mrs. Elmer Veety, American Association of University Women; Mrs. Lorraine Krakowski, Visiting Nurse Association of Monroe County; Mrs. Esther Musselman, Monroe County Nurses Association.

But no one could present, in a well-tied package the love and honest affection the men and women felt for the woman who was being honored. They applauded her 14 times and stood up for six of those ovations. They applauded the members of her family, her husband (A. M. Price) and the work that each of them had done.

When it was nearly over Frank LaBar told the group:

Happy

"I'm happy to be a part of this occasion honoring a woman who has done with her life what I think people should do — spend it for something that will outlast them. No doctor in this room has exceeded the heartwarming work this woman doctor has done in and for Monroe county."

Nina Price stood up to make her small speech of thanks in a voice that is obviously unaccustomed to addressing large groups — especially of a hundred people who have come to say "thanks" to her. She said what she had to say hesitantly:

"Did you ever dream that you were walking down a street or you were in a room filled with people and you suddenly realized you'd forgotten your shoes or something?

"Well, I feel like that now. I'm also sure I'll wake up any minute and find out that I have on a hospital gown and I'm wearing a bedpan for a hat or some crazy thing like that."

The audience roared. It was the right joke at the right moment. Without it, there wouldn't have been a dry eye in the house.

Serious

Then Dr. Nina was serious again. She wanted to set something straight, she said.

"I don't know why you feel that I've done so much and not been repaid. I've had more fun in my work than I could ever have had any other way and I've been repaid a thousand times.

"I've gotten so much and I've had so much from everything I've done and everyone I know."

The real sum of Dr. Nina's life in Monroe county was not present in the room with the openly-affectionate men and women with whom she works, however.

It was a total which could be found only in hundreds of Monroe County homes, in the obscure backwoods cabins and the overcrowded apartments in the seldom-mentioned tenement sections of the boroughs. It was in these dim corners that Dr. Nina Price had left her deepest and greatest gifts.

She is, after all, a dedicated woman who believes firmly in what she is doing.

And what she is doing — like the story of her 50 years which will be told, in part here — is "to be continued."

Planning Commission Merits Full Support

Virtually grounded since it was appointed late in 1955, Monroe County Planning Commission is about ready to launch its ship of state on a course which we hope will culminate in greater regional prosperity and a measure of orderly planning not now possible.

The commission chairman, George T. Robinson, and the other members are to be commended for arranging a meeting with the county commissioners for June 12 to explore the scope of the whole function of the Planning Commission.

One of the nation's foremost planning consultants, Clifton E. Rodgers, of Beaver Falls, has agreed to address the joint session.

He is expected to enumerate many of the advantages that have accrued in progressive communities which have set up active planning commissions. Mr. Rodgers also will be asked to approximate the cost of getting the county planning program on a functioning basis and for keeping it an active force for the common good. In this connection, he will outline possible sources of state and federal aid.

The Planning Commission was appointed by the former board of county commissioners and continued in office under the present board. It is non-partisan in nature. Its members receive no salaries or fees. They represent all sections of the county.

The commission's sole purpose is to bring about civic improvements along a well defined plan looking ahead to the orderly growth of the entire county. Its functions are purely advisory.

The Planning Commission may hire a planning consultant to study the county's physical assets and shortcomings. A regional plan is then drawn up for both immediate and long-range civic improvements.

The commission shall supplement the consultant's report with recommendations of its own from time to time on matters having regard for present conditions and future needs and growth of the county.

It can encourage the cooperation of the political subdivisions within the county in matters concerning the county plan. The commission also may make recommendations to public authorities, any corporations or individuals with reference to any buildings, structures or works to be erected by them.

Monroe County sorely needs the services of an active Planning Commission. It cannot expect to progress satisfactorily unless it builds along an orderly pattern designed for the future. Any hodge-podge development will destroy property values, encourage business and industry to move elsewhere and result in a deterioration of the entire community.

The Monroe County Planning Commission deserves the full support of every governing body and every citizen if it is to accomplish its purpose. Stated simply, this purpose is to build for a bigger and better community.

New Industry For Pennsylvania

A UNIQUE meeting was held in Harrisburg last week which brought together officials of the State Department of Commerce, of the State and local Chambers of Commerce and other business and industrial groups interested in getting new industries—and new payrolls—for Pennsylvania.

Statistics on this subject have been pretty sombre for some time. For various reasons, including high state taxes, Pennsylvania hasn't been expanding as rapidly as some of its competing states. We've got more areas of substantial labor surplus than any other state.

In short, we've got many people who are out of jobs, even though they're willing and capable workers, and we've got whole communities which need industries to shore up their economic base and enable their populations to earn a living.

Lately, however, the sound of our prospects has been somewhat better. Tax changes are in the works that will help equalize the tax costs of Pennsylvania industry with those of other states. And, through adversity, we've been learning how to help ourselves.

State Secretary of Commerce William R. Davlin told the Industrial Development Clinic that the so-called "Scranton Plan," which was developed to equip that city with new industries, has been spreading.

"Our count shows that 80 Pennsylvania communities have, mainly since the war, built some 110 factory buildings at a cost of 44 million dollars that provide jobs for 28,000 factory workers," he said. "In other words, there is no just one 'Scranton Plan' there are at least 79 others just like it. And there will be more."

Mr. Davlin noted that the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority, set up by the last Legislature, will ease the burden of such local boot-strap operations. Under that plan, the local community provides 20 per cent of the cost of a new plant, banks take 50 per cent of the cost on first mortgages, and the state authority takes 30 per cent on a second mortgage.

This plan got a late start last year and has been in operation only nine months. But the loans already made or committed or being processed will use up most of the five million dollars provided by the Legislature. The Department is asking another similar appropriation.

This wasn't all the industrial expansion in the state. Last year, Mr. Davlin said, manufacturing companies announced 363 projects for Pennsylvania, of which 223 were expansions, 84 new plants and 56 idle plants put back into production.

Pennsylvania is far from dying on the vine, industrially, Mr. Davlin concludes, and there's no reason why we can't speed up expansion. He pointed out that many authorities predict continuing industrial expansion through the year 1965, along with population increases.

"Here, then, is our industrial development market," he said. "We will not get our share automatically. But if Pennsylvania communities, utilities, railroads, realtors and the state government continue to work together at it, Pennsylvania can get more than her share."

Mr. Davlin's our top man in industrial development, and we'll do well to heed his advice. The program on which he is working got bi-partisan support in the last Legislature and merits the same sort of consideration now.—Pittsburgh Press.

George Sokolsky Says...

Money Power Of Labor Leaders Compared With Big Business Policies In 1890s

Each generation discovers what has long existed as something startlingly new. Labor racketeering seems such a new discovery in the year 1957, although it has been usual in American labor for a century. Back in the days of the Knights of Labor, there was a racket called the Home Club which while posing as a labor organization actually worked for the bosses. These days it would be called a company union. The building trades back in the early days were particularly notorious because the business agents of the unions speeded up or slowed down work according to the deals that were made with them personally.

The kick-back was an old-form of union racketeering. The kick-back was, in effect, a reduction in wages, part of it going to the foreman or a bookkeeper, but eventually making its way into the pockets of the boss. A kick-back is impossible unless the officials of the labor union agreed to it and for such an agreement they got a rake-off. There are all sorts of ways of turning union activity into petty private enterprise.

Today the kick-back would be chicken feed because wherever there is a closed shop or a union shop, the take is so big that union officials, except those way down the line, would not bother wtih such small amounts.

By singling out Dave Beck and his union as currupt, some of the labor leaders are sure that they have taken the monkeys off their own backs, which is something we still have to see. What is necessary is a complete, overall study of the money prize in American trade unionism.

When a labor leader has absolute and personal control of a quarter of a billion dollars of public funds, for which he is in no manner bound to account, then he is a dangerous person because he can use that money honestly or corruptly at will. No citizens other than labor leaders are so empowered. No group could accumulate such funds without Treasury supervision and control.

The claim is constantly being made that certain labor leaders work with the "mob" and that others do not. The term, mob, is intended to give the impression that sinister forces, gangsters, racketeers, murderers have formed a conspiracy with labor leaders to control the production and distribution of goods.

Again, it is nothing new in American labor relations and the unions which are now praised for their purity have a long history of such associations. In fact, the garment industry of New York which these days is praised as superior to Dave Beck's teamsters at one stage found gangsters on both the union and industry side.

It is supposed to be high strategy in labor circles to speak well of certain labor leaders and to denounce others because of their relations to the "mob." Taking the history of all the unions, over all the years of their existence, it is impossible to discover such puritanism as we are now asked to recognize. It is the repetition of the big lie that makes such labor leaders little angels in 1957 who were quite devilish in the 1930s. Are we all supposed to lose our memories?

Until the money prize in trade unionism is abolished, so that being a labor leader ceases to be a profitable enterprise but becomes a job with a fixed salary and nothing more—until that happens, the money prize in labor union leadership becomes a lodestone for a political type of individual who unites with others of the same kind of person to make what he can out of it.

Some men seek power; others money. Some work for both. But no labor leader can afford, under present circumstances, to live among his fellows strictly on his salary without an expense account and without access to strike funds, educational funds and welfare funds. A close analysis of the political expenditures of unions is more important nationally than Dave Beck's Fifth Amendment pleas.

The enormous money power of these labor leaders is having the same effect upon politics as the use of money by big business in the 1890s. In fact, it is getting so that in many places the only people with ready cash are labor leaders and those who work the angles. It gives a man power to have ready cash these days.

Cranberry Article In Publication

By Jim Riley

A story on the Cranberry Bog, located between Tannersville and Cherry Lane, appears in the current issue of the Pennsylvania Game News.

The article is written by Dr. William Niering, professor at Connecticut, and a 1942 graduate of Pocono High School, Tannersville.

Bill, the man who led the fight to keep the bog in its natural state, reveals the workings of the project and the many little things that were put together to make it a success.

He politely thanks everyone who assisted in raising money to purchase the property covered by the bog and also touches on a few of the secrets hidden within the glacier-made bog.

The Cranberry Bog is now nationally famous and may someday be internationally known. The guy to thank for the entire program is Bill Niering—the man who refused to call it quits despite a number of obstacles.

Hope For Arthritic And Diabetes Cases

Washington, May 23—Medical research is scoring an epic victory over a malady that has blinded thousands of premature babies every year.

Retrolental fibroplasia is now "well on the way toward being conquered."

And the millions of arthritic and diabetes sufferers can definitely look forward to much improved drugs in the foreseeable future. New ones undergoing extensive tests offer that stirring hope.

Significant progress is also being made in the highly complex and difficult struggle against cerebral palsy, epilepsy, tuberculosis, deafness and allergies.

These are outstanding features of a comprehensive report on notable achievements in medical research that will be published as an official document by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Titled "Highlights of Research Progress for 1956," the 200-page study was prepared by experts of the famed National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md. It is the first survey of its kind to be put out by this powerful Senate Committee.

Copies can be obtained by writing Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.), head of the subcommittee in charge of the institutes' budget, or other senators.

The report bluntly stresses there are still no cures for these diseases.

But in the meanwhile "significant advances continue to be made in treating the victims of these disorders, and exciting developments of a practical nature can be predicted."

What's Been Done—Two drugs are singled out in the report as having "exciting potentialities" in treating arthritis and diabetes.

Both drugs are still being tested. It is carefully emphasized no conclusions can yet be drawn. But results so far are distinctly encouraging. Following is what the study says regarding these important research developments:

"Among the new drugs recently made available for tests and clinical trials (on arthritis) is triamcinolone, which is being evaluated by the National Institute and by grantees in New York and Philadelphia. Preliminary results indicate this new drug is at least as potent as others and so far has shown fewer side effects. It is too early to be definite, but at this point it appears that triamcinolone may represent a successful attempt to improve on available drugs.

"Diabetes can be controlled but comparatively little is still known about the cause and nature of this disease. Extensive clinical tests of a new drug were conducted during the past year, and results to date are not conclusive. This drug, tolbutamide, which apparentlp is not toxic, lowered the blood sugar, one of the symptoms of diabetes, but was relatively ineffective in treating juvenile diabetes, or severely diabetic persons."

Summaries of the report's significant findings regarding the other diseases are as follows:

"CEREBRAL PALSY: In one type of cerebral palsy, kernicterus, it was found that multiple blood transfusions could to a considerable extent prevent the disease in new born babies."

"EPILEPSY: A very significant development is the tracing of patients' seizure patterns involving bizarre epileptic movements to specific and localized parts of the brain in the temporal lobe and other areas as well. Experiments with two new drugs, gamma-amino-butyrate and 2-pyrrolidinone, have reversed seizures in animals and aided humans."

"BLINDNESS: Important research finds include: A new diagnostic technique which will make possible the early detection and treatment of a virulent form of uveitis, a major blinding disease; a tool for precisely defining the location and size of brain tumors.

"Also the discovery and tracing of a nerve system linking the cochlea in the inner ear with the brain; the use of high-frequency sound waves for the precise destruction of tissues deep within animal brain, an achievement which may prove applicable to human brain surgery."

"HEARING: An Institutes scientist during the past year has made a major finding as to the relationship between the ear and the higher mental function in the brain. Knowledge of this relationship is of great importance if we are to understand the basic causes of hearing loss, as well as the cause and nature of such disorders as aphasia. The finding and tracing of oliva-cochlear bundle opens up broad new vistas of research into the nature, cause and treatment of hearing disorders."

"TUBERCULOSIS: The chemical compounds, streptomycin and glycerine combination, show promise in the therapy of human tuberculosis. The new antibiotic, cycloserine, also shows promise in TB treatment."

Dr. Edward Blomquist, tuberculosis expert of the U.S. Public Health Service, told the Senate Appropriations Committee that in 1956 the death rate of this disease dropped 10 per cent and new cases by 3 per cent.

Total TB deaths were 15,000 and new cases 75,000.

Dr. Blomquist warned the latter is not the whole story on this disease. He estimated there are 100,000 "unknown" TB cases. The Public Health Service is trying to uncover them through its mobile X-ray clinics.

More Trouble—The Senate is far from finished with the heavily-battered U.S. Information Agency.

In addition to slashing $53,000,000 from its budget, Senate Democratic and Republican leaders now propose to shift USIA from an independent agency to control of the State Department.

That's what Senators Lyndon Johnson (D., Tex.), and William Knowland (R., Calif.), have discussed with Senator Theodore Green (D., R. I.), head of the Foreign Relations Committee. He's all for this backstage plan, and is ready to sponsor a bill to put it into effect.

But Secretary Dulles is sold to the idea.

Sounded out about it by Green, the State Department head displayed marked reluctance to having anything to do with the embattled USIA. Dulles also evidenced little enthusiasm for its Director Arthur Larson.

When Senator Green slyly pointed out Larson "is a modern Republican," that drew a stiff rejoiner.

"Mr. Larson is a personal friend of the White House," said Dulles. "He is no protege of mine. I have no desire to add him to either my staff or responsibilities."

Social Whirl—Free-loading isn't all an unalloyed joy. This leading Washington indoor sport has its hazards. Chief among them is over-eating which, in the opinion of an indisputable authority, is a major occupational hazard of the Capital, particularly among members of Congress. That's the considered opinion of Admiral George Calver, long-time physician of Congress. Says the veteran doctor: "They attend far too many banquets, cocktail parties and other affairs than are good for them. Some of them are beef-steaked to death. I've had them tell me they've had to eat as many as five steaks dinners a day." . . . No steaks were served as Laos Ambassador Ourot Souvannavong's big garden party celebrating his country's Constitution Day. But there was a lot of other fancy food, including seafood Newburgh with rice, chicken ala king, huge platters of cold cuts, piles of pastries, mounds of ice cream, and limitless champagne and other liquors.

Strange social doings are going on among the Iron Curtain diplomats. They have suddenly broken out with a flurry of parties. Czechoslovakian Minister Petrzelka gave a reception, curiously in honor of a holiday celebrated by the Republic which the Communists suppressed. Rumanian Minister Brucan showed a film made in his country, with an elaborate buffet and drinks for guests, and Soviet Consular Sergai Striganov did the same thing at a cocktail party, where genuine Russian caviar and vodka were available to all in unlimited amounts . . . British Minister and Mrs. Coulson were prize winners at a big costume ball with attires depicting the Volstead Act and Repeal. He was Volstead and she was Repeal. Both wore empty liquor bottles, corks and other symbols of those periods.

Right Job Awaits You If You Learn To Look

By Anne Heywood

Too many of us make one big mistake. Whether we're job-hunting, buying a dress or choosing a book, we don't investigate enough. We don't "try on" enough. Instead, we let ourselves slip into the first thing that comes along.

In fact, I know people who put more effort into planning a two-week vacation than they do in planning their entire career.

One big step that is overlooked is the matter of reading about various jobs and kinds of work.

Know Nothing

We know about a few types of work—what our fathers, older brothers, sisters and friends do—but beyond that, we don't know anything. Yet the vocational world is full of a number of things. We might find that the exact right job for us does really exist.

The public library is a gold mine of information about fields where the grass is plenty green.

Another thing too many of us forget is that education is sometimes available on special grants or scholarships. I know young people who can't afford further education and so they give up and settle in a routine job. Yet all the time, if they only knew, there are organizations offering special scholarships to people just like them.

Took Advice

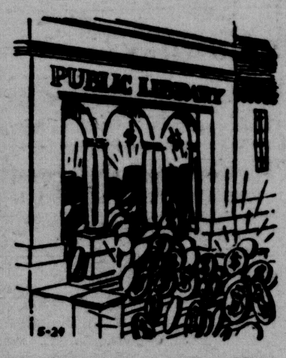
"I finally broke down and took your advice," one young woman writes.

"We live in a rural area. About twice a month we drive in to the city—quite a long drive. My mother, sisters and I usually spend the two days shopping or at shows, but this time I broke down and spent my time in the library—and did I learn plenty!

"Among other things, I looked up the book you mentioned called 'Your Opportunity' and I found that I can get a scholarship to study art."

Plan For Success

If you want to succeed in your job, do resolve to put a little effort into planning it.



Your Library Is Gold Mine of Information

Do get acquainted with your public library, your local bookshop, the good magazines. Start a scrapbook of articles from your newspaper and magazines, articles about different kinds of jobs. Whether you're in school, or in a job you dislike, or a mother planning to work some day when the children are grown, begin a cereer scrapbook.

If you are interested in scholarships, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of this newspaper, and I'll tell you about the book, 'Your Opportunity'.

Memos Of A Girl Friday

Dear WW.: Yankees' star Billy Martin says thanks for inviting him with you on the town when you thought he looked lonely the other night. But since the Copa incident he must be in bed my midnight or suffer a fine. He said the headlines made his mother cry. That he feels awful for Hank Bauer, who was helping him celebrate his birthday. I asked Billy if he heard anyone making an insulting remark about Sammy Davis Jr. who was doing his act at the time.

Martin said someone (not at the Yankee table) called Sammy a "Mau-Mau" but that nobody wanted to make a fight out of it. . . . The Mickey Cohen-Mike Wallace comments about the Los Angeles police heads will probably raise premiums on libel-insurance again. Things seem to have changed somewhat since you were called "too controversial."

The friends of Nina Dyer (former wife of Baron Thyssen) believe her romance with Sadruddin Khan (the Aga's youngest boy) is over. He's been with his mater in Southern France since early April. Nina's been in Paris all the time and he didn't bother to see her, they say. . . . I hear the late Marquis de Portago's very wealthy mother may send bundles of money to the families of those killed when the Marquis lost control of his racer. . . . Linda Christian's other admirer, Belgian tennistar Philip Washer, flew to Madrid to console her.

The Earl of Carnarvon-socialite Ann Hunt wedding plans apparently have hit a snag. The date was May 1st . . . After almost ten years apart Duke Ellington's No. 1 trumpeter (Shorty Baker) and Mary Lou Williams will make it legal. . . . It will be a Fall wedding for Nancy Bovard and David Wilson. His grandad was U. S. Ambassador to Mexico. . . . Bruce Cabot, a long time abroad, is expected to return with a bride. She may be Italian actress Olga Villi, a former Countess. . . . Lorraine Manville's most attentive beau (since she filed for divorce from Chas. Baxter) is Cornelius Dresselhuys, her former husband.

Refugee Problems Aired At Red Cross Meeting

HENRY BLOSS, veteran National Red Cross director, explained the Hungarian Refugee problems as confronted his staff at Camp Kilmer during the Monroe County Chapter's annual meeting last night. The meeting was held at the Stroudsburg YMCA.

Bloss revealed that 361 planes and five ship loads or over 32,364 Hungarians were handled during the admission of refugees to this country through Camp Kilmer.

On the biggest day 2,500 were handled, complete with clothes, food and lodging. At one time during the course of refugee admission 150 pairs of shoes were issued each hour.

But, as Bloss pointed out it wasn't always that way.

The first plane that arrived carried 55 Hungarians. There was no clothing available and most of the refugees had no clothes under overcoats they wore.

But, soon the ball was rolling and $200,000 was spent for underclothing alone. Used clothing weighing 375 tons was donated and 180 tons was quickly handed out. Thousands of shoes were donated.

Thirty-one Red Cross chapters in New Jersey presented volunteers. The volunteers numbered between 150 and 175 per day and the overall total was 1,526. The hourly total was 89,770. Sewing machines were donated and operators donated their services.

Shortwave radios were used for communication, as telephones in the camp were completely swamped.

Bloss pointed out that Red Cross International has set up a new system in Geneva, Switzerland. A card on each refugee will be placed on file at this location.

William Wells, chairman of the Monroe County Chapter, briefly told of the recent national convention he attended in Washington, D. C.

Other officers are Russell Harmon, vice chairman; Mrs. Walter Dreher, vice chairman; Allan Keiper, vice chairman; Mrs. Jeanette Batory, secretary, and William Hawn, treasurer.

Directors are William Fisher III, Mrs. Adan Bohner, Mrs. Clifford Heller, Mrs. Harold J. Pine, Mrs. Florence Warner, William Thomas, Mrs. Donald Brown, Charles Bensinger, toastmaster of last night's dinner meeting, and Earl J. Slutter. Mrs. George Hauser is an honorary director.

Judge Fred H. Davis, director of Monroe County Civil Defense, spoke briefly, as did Harold Buttman, administrator of the regional blood center in Wilkes-Barre, during the course of last night's meeting.

It was officially announced that LeRoy Mikels, head of Monroe County Bloodmobile Unit, would be in charge of the Wilkes-Barre Center in the future. The Wilkes-Barre Center includes 19 counties and 34 chapters.

Miss Sarah Detrick, Red Cross field representative, also spoke briefly.

Rev. Charles Parks delivered the invocation.

Jurisdictional Dispute Hits Printing Press Erection

A JURISDICTIONAL dispute between two unions yesterday halted erection of The Daily Record's new printing press at its new building.

The new Record plant is located on the corner of Broad and Lenox Sts. in South Stroudsburg.

Daily Record General Manager Horace G. Heller said last night that the newspaper has an agreement with Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, to erect the new press in the new building.

Heller said Goss assigned an erector who is a member of the International Association of Machinists to erect the press. Slightly more than a week ago the erector began local operations, Heller said.

Millwrights who are members of local Carpenters and Joiners Union claimed jurisdiction, citing a precedent established locally in another situation, Heller said. Erection of the press proceeded on schedule until yesterday morning the general manager reported.

Representative

Heller said that Emerson Stanton, local business representative of the International Association of Machinists appeared at the plant and claimed jurisdiction in the work.

Stanton cited and showed an agreement between the Carpenters and Joiners and the IAM on an international level which set forth that machinists have jurisdiction over printing press erection, Heller said.

Millwrights relinquished jurisdiction and left the job, the manager said. Heller said that The Daily Record "was and is wholly in agreement with the jurisdictional agreement between the two unions."

The newspaper general manager said that The Daily Record has requested that the IAM secure "local IAM union members to proceed with the work." Stanton advised Heller that he (Stanton) was sent to the job by an official of the IAM in New York City.

Heller said that The Daily Record is now awaiting word from Stanton on assignment of local IAM workers which will help meet the moving date of the newspaper into its new modern plant in the very near future.

All other union crafts at the plant are functioning normally, the general manager said.

The Litts car veered toward the sidewalk and crashed into the Seese car. Mrs. Seese, 98 Walnut St., East Stroudsburg, and Mrs. Minnie Lesoine, 149 N. Courtland St., were passengers in the Seese car, and suffered injuries.

Mrs. Seese struck the windshield and suffered injuries to her chest, arm and head. Mrs. Lesoine hurt her neck, the chief of police revealed. Mrs. Seese reported to the hospital, but was asked to report back for x-rays today, as was Mrs. Lesoine.

Atmosphere Hampers TV Reception

TELEVISION viewers who have been complaining about interference in their signals needn't blame the trouble on their sets necessarily—nor even on their neighbor's buzz saw.

The trouble—a usual occurrence at this time of year—is due to atmospheric conditions which cause freakish reception on some of the channels.

Locally, radiation from the station in St. Joseph's, Mo., is interfering with the reception on Channel 2, New York, and sometimes on Channels 3, 4 and 5.

Meeting

The Pocono Electronics Assn., a group composed of 15 television servicemen, discussed the interference at their meeting Wednesday night. They reported receiving complaints from a great many people who thought the trouble was in their sets.

The set owners reported the TV picture was garbled and voice transmission from one or more stations in the West broke into broadcasts from New York and Philadelphia stations.

Television signals which ordinarily would pass off into space are reflected back to earth by a layer of atmosphere set up by sunspots and other conditions, according to TV servicemen.

Two Firms Announce Merger Plans

WIND GAP—Supradur Manufacturing Corp. merged yesterday with Seagrave Corp. of Columbus, Ohio in a $6,000,000 stock-trade deal.

The merger was made official in Jersey City yesterday afternoon, according to J. Lawrence Davis, Supradur attorney and secretary-treasurer of the Wind Gap Company.

Davis will be one of three Supradur board members who will be seated on the merged board of directors. The others: John H. Steiner, New York City, Supradur board chairman and K. Fred Netter, president of the Wind Gap Company. Seagrave will have four directors on the board.

Fire Equipment

Seagrave is the nation's largest manufacturer of complete motorized fire equipment. Supradur is a manufacturer of asbestos cement shingles. There was no immediate announcement of the part Supradur is to play in the large corporation which results from the merger.

The business transaction was made through a mutual trade of stocks by stockholders in both firms. Seagrave gains a controlling interest in Supradur through the deal.

U.S. Savings Bonds
pay you higher interest
...faster!

IF YOU'VE always bought U. S. Savings Bonds for their rock-ribbed safety, their guaranteed return, the way they make saving easier—you've got one more reason now!

Every Series E United States Savings Bond you've bought since February 1, 1957, pays you a new, higher interest—3¼% when held to maturity! It reaches maturity faster—in only 8 years and 11 months. And redemption values are higher, too, especially in the earlier years.

About your older Bonds? Easy. Just hold onto them. As you know, the rate of interest a Savings Bond pays increases with each year you own it, until maturity. Therefore, the best idea is to buy the new—and hold the old!

The main thing about E Bonds, of course, is their complete safety. Principal and interest are fully guaranteed. They are loss-proof, fire-proof, theft-proof—because the Treasury will replace them without charge in case of mishap. Your Savings Bonds are as solid as a rock—backed by the full faith and credit of the United States.

Maybe you already know about Savings Bonds—as one of the 40 million Americans who own them today, or as one of the other millions who have used Bond savings to help pay for new homes, cars, or college educations, or to make retirement financially easier. If so, this is familiar territory to you—you know there's no better way to save.

But if you're new to the game, find out about Savings Bonds and what they can do for your future. Ask your banker, or check with your employer about the automatic Payroll Savings Plan that makes saving painless and easy.

Selected Issues Show Market Gains

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Selected issues made some good gains today but the stock market on average eased again within the area of the new 1957 highs it established recently.

It was the third straight day that the market had settled back after setting its latest new high for the year.

Overall, it was the decline in leading rails which was chiefly responsible for the market's drop on average. The carriers were affected by a fall in carloadings and some reports of lower earnings.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped a minimum 10 cents to $154.40 with the industrials unchanged, the rails down 50 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Volume totaled 2,110,000 shares compared with 2,060,000 yesterday.

Of 1,147 issues traded, however, declines substantially outnumbered gains by 525 to 351. New highs for 1957 contracted to 41 compared with 57 yesterday and new lows totaled 20.

Among the 15 most active stocks gainers totaled 10 and there were only 2 losers. Three were unchanged.

Getty Oil was the day's most active stock, up 2⅝ at 33¾ on 61,500 shares.

Prices were irregular on the American Stock Exchange where volume totaled 930,000 shares compared with 970,000 yesterday.

Corporate bonds drifted lower. U. S. Government bonds declined in over the counter dealings.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

As I am writing this, late on Thursday afternoon, the testimonial dinner for my mother, Dr. Nina Mae Price, is still a secret — but certainly the most complicated, difficult and confusing secret ever kept.

The dark and devious dodges by which we tried to make sure she kept the date open and had something proper to wear were complicated enough, but things really began to get confused yesterday as, one by one, her whole family started arriving from the four points of the compass.

Of course, if we could have kept them apart it wouldn't have been so difficult. But when you've only 48 hours to spend with your mother it's more than flesh and blood can stand to spend 12 of those hiding from her.

So they all came, each with a different excuse, none of them very plausible. The feeblest excuse of all was the spur-of-the-moment one Carol came out with. Having ridden all afternoon and all night from Chicago, she wasn't at her most alert, I'll admit.

Even so, her airy: "Oh, Bobby wanted me to come with her to her hula lesson," must have established some sort of nadir in alibis.

One of the most welcome things about that dinner for Dr. Price must have been the fact that it dispelled her conviction, which had been growing stronger with every passing hour, that her whole family was going stark, staring, raving mad in wholesale lots.

Schoolroom Cowboys Taste The Real Thing

Climaxing their unit on study on Cowboys, the first grade of the Campus Laboratory School at the college this week visited the Clarence Edinger Pony Farm outside of Stroudsburg.

There the new vocabulary they have learned in school was put to use, as they watched the saddling and bridling, mounted to the saddle and guided the ponies with the reins. In the saddle room they inspected the equipment needed for the care of horses, and learned there is a lot more to being a cowboy than guns and holsters.

Afterward they went into the pasture to see the ponies graze. Later they talked over their experiences with Earl Edinger and Thunder and Prince and Major in a real corral.

Miss Elva Rowe was student teacher for the unit with Mrs. Helen Little, supervisor. Mothers who drove the children on the field trip were Mrs. Thomas Smith, Mrs. Walter Stauffer, Mrs. Kenneth Lockard.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Just one month ago today I celebrated my birthday—which means the head of our cosmetic department has a birthday today. Happy celebration, Pearl Walters!—and aren't you lucky that you're still too young and attractive to need all those lotions, creams, wrinkle eradicators, and coverups that you sell the rest of us . . . In the column of yesterday, I mentioned Bean Bag bathing trunks for boys, but neglected to tell about McGregor's reversible suit, that's black and white checked on one side, and all black on the other. It's a stunner, at 2.98, in sizes 12 to 18 . . . Ever hear the story of the cross-eyed bear named Gladly? I haven't either, because Dottie Dunn forgot all but the first line when she started to tell it. In any case, Gladly is my new nickname for reasons only a very few of us understand . . . If your thoughts are in the stratosphere fashion-wise, you'll be wanting to know about the stratosheer batistes utilized by Youtheme in the manufacture of their adorable waltz length gown and duster ensembles. These wash in a swish of suds, dry in the time it takes to blink an eye, and require absolutely no ironing. Priced at 10.98, in sizes 32 to 38, they are of pretty shadow check pattern in blue or pink. Waltz the use of looking any further for becoming sleep attire? Here it is! . . . Margie Barnes has one of the loveliest charm bracelets I've ever seen, and it represents quite an investment, being of 14K gold. Particularly intriguing is the oddly shaped sphere of brown filigree behind an airy "cage" of gold. At first glance, I thought the darker "metal" was bronze, but Marge tells me it isn't. It isn't even metal. It's hair—one of the truly lovely examples of work done years ago when a lock of hair was a precious thing used in many decorative ways. Funny, but these days about the only time hair is precious is when you begin to worry about losing it! . . . The Barnes jewelry department of our store carries many interesting charms for both gold and silver bracelets. One that is particularly cute is the little gold typewriter with the movable carriage. Its price is forbidding however, because it is so truly precious. Sterling silver charms are, of course, much less expensive, and both the Barnes and Wyckoff departments have an excellent assortment. One bracelet in our Wyckoff section is priced at just 3.00, complete with a dangling scroll representing a diploma. A delightful gift for the graduate, and one upon which the date could very easily be inscribed. Other charms include toasters, baby carriages, tennis racquet and ball, sweepers, skates, alarm clock, movie cameras, bird houses, and beautiful St. Christopher medals. Prices begin at 1.50. Both Betty LaBarre and Joe Barnes tell me it's almost impossible to keep the little baby shoes and medallions in stock these days, for there is a great vogue for them among grandmothers as well as young people. Many grandmothers have a disc with the name and birthdate of every child, or with baby shoes bearing the birthdates. Margaret Hunter, of our personnel department, is one grandmother who wears two tiny silver shoes with dates—but they dangle from a pretty bar pin. (Incidentally, there's room for about two more on that pin, Audrey!) . . . Carol Smith, the cute collegian who works part time in our candy department, tried on the finery for one of her big year end dances at a special fitting Wednesday afternoon in our Wyckoff alteration room. We don't need to look any further to guess who'll be Belle of the Ball, she was THAT bouffant and bewitching . . . Some of those key chains in Bea Gorgy's department are entrancing. From them dangle little boxes of leather or suede, containing varied things such as miniature shaving sets, sewing accessories, and cigarette holders. They are priced from 1.00 to 2.98, and made in Italy. I like those carved ivory key chain decorations too—particularly the sea horse. These are just 1.00 . . . The past few days have been mighty busy ones for Shorty Widmer, thanks to all the inscribing he's been doing on presents honoring Dr. Nina M. Price. Not only did he engrave a beautiful gold compact, and a sterling silver dish, but he scripted the Business and Professional Woman's citation, which was later framed in gold by Walter Logan. Our gift wrapping center was busy too, and did an absolutely gorgeous job on the hat box, containing her exciting new blue chapeau. We love the idea of giving Dr. Price a hat—she's just feminine enough to adore 'em.

Stations For Rain Gauging Become Part Of Civil Defense Activities In Monroe County

WILLIAM B. Drawbaugh, U. S. Weather Bureau representative, working in conjunction with the Monroe County Council of Civil Defense, met members of the rain gauging stations of the county in a special meeting held in the County Civil Defense Headquarters last night. Headquarters are in the Monroe County Court House.

Members of this special service group are working to perfect a rainfall gauging system throughout the county in an effort to provide accurate data in case of severe rains and emergency conditions and to correlate the findings with nearby counties through the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Drawbaugh, introduced to the group by Jack Anderson, Eastern Area CD director, explained the details of the service and introduced Sumner Bossler, assistant Monroe County executive director, who will collect all county data, correlate the findings and phone in the data to the U. S. Weather Bureau at Allentown.

Drawbaugh pointed out that these precipitation surveys will be especially valuable both to Monroe County Civil Defense and to the U. S. Weather Bureau during those seasons of the year when rainfall through melting snow or excessive downpour may become hazardous and destructive of life and property.

The instructor described the nature of the Monroe County watershed and went into detail concerning the technical preparation of a weather precipitation index and details of reportage.

Gauging stations have been approved and will go into service at once from the following stream points:

Upper Brodheads—C. Marshall Reese, Barrett Township CD director; Paradise—Edwin C. Besecker; McMichaels — Michael Vianello; Paradise at Henryville —George Raish; Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg—Bossler, and Swiftwater, Jack Anderson. Other points will be added from time to time.

Cadillac

Friendly Welcome For a Total Stranger!

He's a "stranger in these parts"—just passing through on his way to some distant destination.

But you wouldn't know it to look at the wonderful welcome he receives as he brings his day's travels to an end.

For high on the hood of his motor car rides the beautiful crest of Cadillac—and the truth of the matter is that hospitality just seems to follow a new Cadillac wherever it goes.

No man, you see, is ever without standing when he is in command of the "car of cars".

For it is a recognized fact that Cadillac owners—representing though they do such varying fields of endeavor and such widely separated parts of our world—also have a great deal in common.

Invariably they are people of marked personal achievement—who have won for themselves a considerable measure of respect and recognition in their chosen work.

In brief, the driver's seat of the Cadillac car is the traditional dwelling place of the world's leading citizens. And people everywhere have found it safe to assume that whomsoever they behold at the wheel is a worthy member of this distinguished company.

Of course, this is but one of the satisfactions of Cadillac ownership . . . in addition to inspiring beauty, luxurious Fleetwood coachcraft, superlative performance and extraordinary value.

Have you as yet taken the wheel of a new 1957 Cadillac? If not, then you should visit your Cadillac dealer and spend an hour on the highway before another day goes by.

He'll be waiting for you with a "friendly welcome" of his own!

RALPH O. BURROWS, principal of East Stroudsburg High School who served as chairman of PIAA District 11, was faced with a tough problem the other day. It was a situation that may come up only once in a lifetime, but it was one which needed immediate attention.

The problem developed over a controversial 100-yard dash in the Class B, District 11 Track and Field Championships last Saturday, and concerned who was the winner and who ended in second, third, fourth and fifth places.

The official ruling of the judges made Santo of Summit Hill, first; Derby, Summit Hill, second; Macenka, Nesquehoning, third; Stump, Schuylkill Haven, fourth, and Dougherty, Coaldale, fifth.

And by the results of this race, Nesquehoning eased out a 50 to 49½ win over Coaldale.

But on Sunday a photo appeared in an area newspaper and "showing" the winner Santo not the victor, but deepest among the five contestants.

Meet Referee Joseph Mammana of Easton High was quoted as saying that there was an error among the judges and that the race should be run over.

Burrows, however, ruled that the decision of the judges would stand.

The East Stroudsburg school administrator quoted Section Nine of Rule Three of the track code. It follows:

"The judges of the finish have jurisdiction over the order in which the competitors finish. The head judge shall designate the places to be picked by the judges. At least two judges shall be assigned to each place to be picked and should serve at opposite ends of the track.

"The judges shall pick one more man, than the number to score. Each judge shall write the number or numbers to place winners selected by him on a card and hand same to the head judge without consulting the other officials. Their decision as to the order in which the competitors finish shall be final and without appeal (unless authorized motion pictures of the finish are used)."

Basing his verdict on the track code of the PIAA regulations, Burrows said the decision of the judges as to the order in which the competitors finished shall be final and without appeal (unless authorized motion pictures of the finish are used.)

From here, there was no other answer for Burrows to give. The ruling is clear and concise. But someone pulled a boner further down the line and it will be unable to be rectified.

The question was brought up that the photographer who took the photo which caused all the furore may have been at a bad angle, causing the misconception of the distance. We looked at the picture and feel, that wherever the lensman was he couldn't have gotten the winner Santo so far away at any angle.

Santo wasn't the winner in this particular race. We wouldn't hazard a guess who was. But it is a shame that by the race, a school was deprived of victory by a miscue on the field of battle.

Burrows had no alternative but to abide by the PIAA regulation. After all two wrongs still don't make a right, and that will happen if the situation arises again.

Quick Pickups—Pocono Manor's head golf professional Jack Cuttle entertained the sports members of the area press yesterday at the beautiful layout atop the Poconos.

The athletic tub thumpers enjoyed luncheon, golf and supper. Present were Nels (Bud) Weiser, Allentown Morning Call; Sid Freeman, Scranton TV caster; Bob Patton, Wilkes-Barre Independent; Jimmy Calpin, Scranton Tribune; and Jim Riley and yours truly, Daily Record.

John Crandall, general manager of the Manor, welcomed the boys.

A big-time, four-day professional and amateur golf tournament is slated for the Shawnee Country Club July 11, 12, 13, and 14.

Top pros from the area as well as par-busters from afar will vie in the classic which is under the direction of Harry Obitz, head Shawnee pro.

'Battle Of Boroughs' Starts At 8 p.m. At Giffels Field

THE PROBABLE batteries for today's game. For Stroudsburg High, Jimmy Snyder, pitching, and Don Stopp, catching. For East Stroudsburg, Curt Hickman, pitching, and Bob Herman, catching.

That's the expected mound and behind the plate setup for the renewal of the "Battle of the Boroughs" under the lights today at Gordon Giffels Field, starting at 8 p.m.

At game time, however, the Mountaineers' mentor, Jerry Stulgaitis, may switch to Ron (Super) Phillips, while Cavalier boss Jack Kist may give the nod to Evan Reese.

Reese and Phillips are right-handers, and Snyder and Hickman throw from the port side.

Probable Lineups

Eastburg will probably line up with Bob Stine at first; Bob Kassner, second; Johnny Hindman, short, and Corky Smith, third. In the outfield will be Frank Lupin, in left, Helmut Gartner, center and either Charley Lupin, Dale Metzgar or Bob Plattenburg or Hickman, in right.

Stroudsburg will probably counter with Charley Cramsey, first; John Schoonover, second; Barry Tretheway, short and Ron Stopp, third. In the outer garden, Dick Cramsey will be in left, Bob Pugh or Phillips, center, and John Hallock or Pugh, right.

The Mountaineers will enter the rivalry-studded tilt with the better record. Stroudsburg in 11 outings this year came out on top seven times. In the Lehigh Valley League, however, the Mountaineers only posted a 3-4 log.

Eastburg ran up a 3-5 record against Lehigh-Northampton League opposition this season and over-all posted a 3-8 mark.

Eastburg LL 'Paint Day'

"PAINT DAY" of the East Stroudsburg Little League will be observed tomorrow at the Eastburg LL park.

Redlegs Up Lead

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—Tom Acker stifled a budding St. Louis rally in the ninth tonight and the Cincinnati Redlegs whipped the Cardinals 6-2 and increased their National League lead to two games over idle Milwaukee. Don Gross had allowed the Cards only three hits until he weakened slightly in the final inning.

Barrett Nine Grabs Lead In Pocono LL

BARRETT ROTARY took over first place in the Pocono Little League last night as they checked in with their second straight victory. Barrett Rotary defeated Pocono Lake Lions, 9-6, while Tannersville suffered its first loss at the hands of Barrett Lions, 7-5.

The two-time hitting of John and Norman Ryan and L. Shinnen paced Barrett Rotary to victory. L. Shinnen also got credit for the hill win.

Barrett Lions outscored Tannersville in the first two innings, 5 to 4, and then held the spread with singletons in the fourth and fifth.

Jimmy Berger pitched and batted his mates to the win. Ruehlman with 3-for-3 led the losers.

Besecker's On Top In Softball Loop

BENNY Hiller's three-run triple and Stumpf's clutch single powered Besecker's Diner into first place in the Monroe Softball League last night as the Dinermen humbled 579th Signal Co., 16-5, at the Stroudsburg playground field.

It was the fourth win in five starts for Besecker's and enabled them to break its tie with Nebel's Market and Twin City TV, each of whom own a 3-1 log.

Besecker's had little trouble from the start scoring in every frame but the fifth. Dr. Gail Fegley chalked up the mound win, scattering five safeties. He also led his mates at plate with three infield hits. Miller also got a single besides his run-producting three-bagger.

Races Slated For Sunday At Nazareth

NAZARETH—A 50-lap feature race—which means 26 gruelling miles of driving at wide open throttle—will be headlined this coming Sunday, 2:30 p. m., at the stock car races in the Nazareth Fairgrounds.

Promoter Jerry Fried, in announcing the season's longest feature event race of 1957, said a handsome purse will be offered to the many drivers who compete from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The 50-lap feature will go on after hard-running preliminaries, including three 10-lap heats, and a 12-lap consolation race.

The races, rained out last Sunday, gave the car owners a good opportunity to work over their racers, in preparation for the May 26 thriller.

The three outstanding drivers this year—Otto Harwi, Ken Wismer and Blackie Reider, all of Easton—will be joined by a redhot group from New York, including Dan Mitchell, Middletown, and top names from New Jersey like Bud Olson, Jack McLaughlin, both of Paulsboro; Carl Van Horn, Belvidere, and Art Scott, Chester.

Inspect Track

In advance of the race, the Nazareth track crew will make a minute inspection, recondition the raceway where necessary, and take all safety precautions. This means a close look at the curves and straightaway, as well as the concrete walls on the turns.

The racers have been hitting at record speed clips in the early season races, and this Sunday will give the endurance racers a chance to present the ultimate in competition.

Recent appearances of Marty Acker, Charley South, Sunny Strupp, Mose Moore, and others from distance tracks, has caused the veterans drivers to use a heavy foot in their individual races.

The 50-lap feature event will present 22 of the fastest cars appearing during the preliminary heats.

Nausbaum Team To Bowl Today

ELS NAUSBAUM bowling team of Easton will bowl today in the Pocono-Slate Belt $40,000-plus tournament at Barrett Bowling Center. The first roll off of the keglers vying for the top money in the actual and handicap divisions is 8 p.m.

Tulip Leaves Shouldn't Be Cut Until They Die

AFTER TULIPS have finished blooming, it's a great temptation to cut the green stalks and leaves down, but this is a poor practice. Tulips must always be allowed to die down each year, and their leaves shouldn't be cut until they have yellowed naturally. Green leaves are making food for the bulbs for next year's growth.

Should tulips be lifted yearly? There is much discussion on this, pro and con. We lift ours every three years, but there's no doubt that you get better results by lifting each year. This takes a lot of time and labor.

Sometimes all that comes up from a tulip bulb is a single large leaf, with no flower stalk. This is a sign that your bulbs need separating. Late summer or early fall are best times to dig and divide the tulips. Don't dig them in spring, as there's no need for storing them in the cellar during the summer months.

Gardners report considerable mice activity this year. Moles have been accused of eating bulbs, but actually this trouble is due to mice. These rodents love tulips and if your tulips failed to grow, they may have been eaten by mice. Yearly spading of the tulip bed will break up mice run ways and help prevent loss of bulbs.

As a final word, if you want to put annuals in the tulip bed, don't spade the soil too deeply as you may cut the bulbs. Annuals are usually shallow-rooted, and the roots won't disturb the bulbs.

Chinese Chestnuts: Some readers have told us their Chinese chestnut tree has died out, and we've been asked if it was due to the blight which has licked our own native chestnut trees. I lost one of my own chestnut trees this year. The Chinese chestnut as known in the trade is extremely variable since it may come from almost any part of temperate China. It varies somewhat in its resistance to the blight although all forms are susceptible to winter injury and following this the blight fungus will attack them. In other words, a tough winter will weaken the chestnut trees and pave the way for the over-present blight fungus. So, while the chestnut is blight resistant, it can be rendered susceptible due to winter injury.

Question Box

N. B. of Stroudsburg: "Sometime back you wrote about an annual called Datura (Angel's Trumpet) being good for a spot where other plants don't do well. A friend told me this flower has poisonous seed pods and should not be planted, since children might eat them. Is this true?

This is true, but it's nothing to worry about. If we took all the poisonous plants from our gardens we'd have nothing left but a few weeds and a few flowers. The Datura we mentioned is in the potato and tomato family. One cannot become alarmed over the poisonous nature of this plant because there are dozens and dozens of others just as bad, and which we've lived with for years. For example, many deaths have resulted from eating potato sprouts. Rhubarb leaves are toxic, as are parsnip leaves, daffodil bulbs, lily of the valley, Laurel leaves, and many others right in your own back yard, including such favorites as Foxglove, larkspur, Christmas rose, etc.

A good many household products if swallowed are equally as poisonous, if not more so. The list includes insecticides, detergents, cleaning fluids, shoe polish, deodorants and other items that are apt to be around the house, with no special warning labels.

I understand a bill is being introduced that will require a poison label on toxic products, with the antidote on the package. This might be the best answer to poisonous plants although they aren't as dangerous as many would leave you to believe.

Mrs. E. T. of Easton: "I have a pocketbook plant (Calceolaria) from Mother's Day. Please tell me how to care for this."

This item likes a rather cool window, but needs plenty of light. It's natural for the pouch-shaped flowers to shed from time to time, but a dry soil will hasten this. Be sure to give the plant plenty of water at all times. Indoors the flowers are often lighter than plants grown in the greenhouse. This is often due to poor light and high temperature. After the plant finishes blooming, cut it back to 6 inches and grow it on in a sunny window. It will usually flower again, although most gardeners prefer to discard it after blooming.

June Tax Installments Mailed

ACCORDING TO DISTRICT Director of Internal Revenue R. P. Brownell, about 35,000 individuals in the Scranton District are now receiving bills for the June 15 installment of estimated income tax.

Brownell emphasized the importance of making prompt payment of the amounts due within the time stated on the bill, and pointed out that the law carries provisions for application of severe penalties for failure to make proper reports and timely payments on account of estimated taxes. However, since June 15 falls on a Saturday, the due date has been extended to Monday, June 17.

Second Quarter

The June payment represents the second quarterly payment of estimated taxes. Taxpayers who have not filed or paid estimated taxes for the first quarter, which was due April 15, should take immediate steps to file at once to minimize their liability for penalty.

The third and fourth quarter payments for the 1957 estimated taxes are due on Sept. 16, and Jan. 15, 1958, Brownell said.

VFW Poppy Days-Thursday, Friday and Saturday May 23rd, 24th and 25th

BUDDY POPPIES SYMBOL OF A NATION'S DEVOTION

Emblem of the dead and dying on the fields of Flanders in 1918, the V.F.W. Buddy Poppy has been glorified by the American people as their "Flower of Remembrance."

Down through the years, ever since 1922 to be exact, the V.F.W. Buddy Poppy has given to all patriotic citizens—rich and poor alike—their chance to honor the dead by helping the living.

The annual sale of Buddy Poppies serves two great purposes. It fosters the beautiful custom of wearing these little flowers, once each year, in mute salute to the memory of America's honored dead; it provides the funds that are required to serve the daily personal needs of the nation's disabled and needy veterans, and their dependents.

There are millions of unfortunate veterans—as well as widows and orphans and dependent parents—who are unable to qualify for government aid.

Why? Mainly because the government itself—in time of war—has never been able to maintain accurate records on the physical welfare of each individual in uniform.

Through no fault of their own, these veterans—many of them the victims of the lingering effects of exposure, shock and malnutrition—are unable to qualify for help from their government because their service records fail to confirm the origin of their ailments.

Your support of the annual sale of Buddy Poppies makes it possible for the Veterans of Foreign Wars to maintain its great, nationwide program of free rehabilitation service to the millions of needy veterans.

Every dime or dollar which you may give in exchange for a Buddy Poppy goes into a special sacred fund—one that will be spent for nothing but the relief and rehabilitation of America's disabled veterans, and their needy loved ones.

Remember the dead who are buried near the battlefields where they died, or in our cemeteries here at home. Let's do them honor by helping the living!

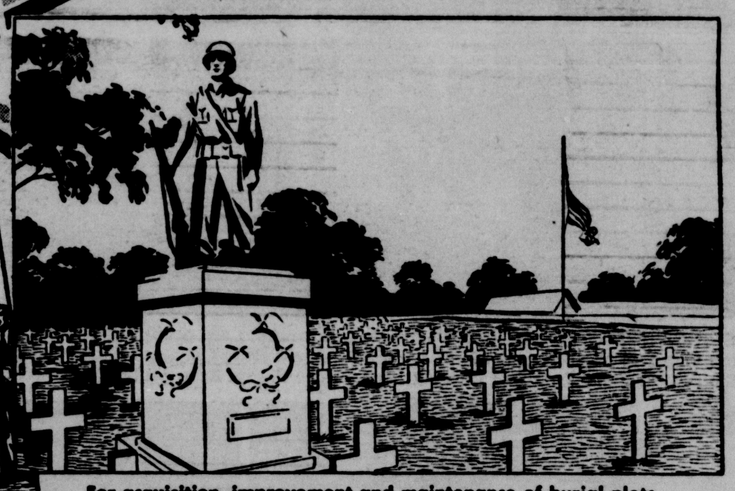
For the aid, relief and comfort of disabled and needy veterans, their dependents, or their widows and orphans.

For hospital entertainment, for needy veterans and service patients.

For rehabilitation, welfare and service work, including liaison service with the Veterans Administration.

For maintenance or expansion of the V.F.W. National Home for widows and orphans of veterans at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

For necessary expenses for military funerals of deceased veterans.



For acquisition, improvement and maintenance of burial plots and the decoration of graves of veterans and servicemen.

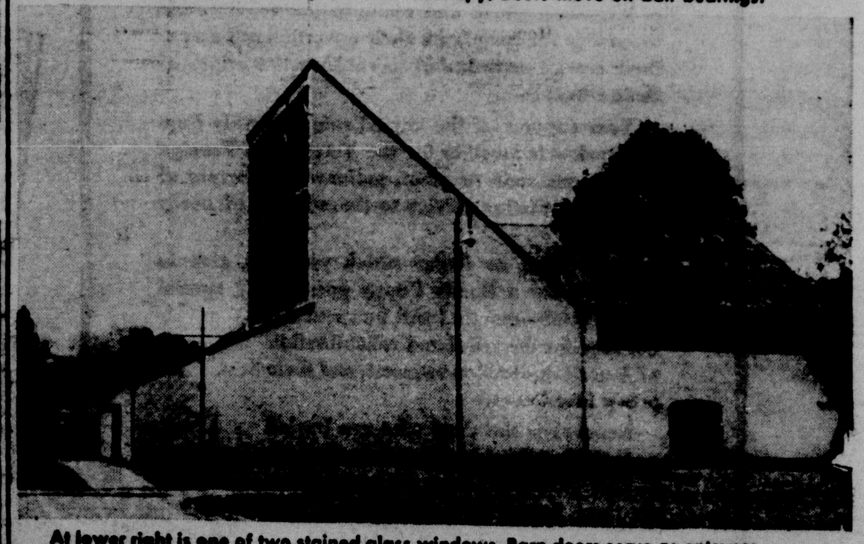
OLD FARM, NEW CHURCH

A BARN dating back to the year 998 is, paradoxically, now the most modernistic church in Austria. The Catholic church in Salzburg-Parsch represents a remodelling of farmhouse and barn. Three Austrian architects and several artists teamed up to change the building. Outstanding feature of building is new roof. All light entering the building falls through large glass windows onto the altar. The church is entered through low arched section that formerly was a cow shed. Church doesn't have a tower. It does have church bells near entrance.

This is outside of Muenchausen farm which eventually became modern church.

Main entrance is protected by a wooden canopy. Doors move on ball bearings.



At lower right is one of two stained glass windows. Barn doors serve as entrance.

Alter is a marble table. Baptismal font and communion benches are also here.

Legion Calls For Action On Immigration

(Special To Daily Record)

WASHINGTON, May 23 — The American Legion this week issued an extraordinary call to its nearly 4,000,000 members and Auxiliary Unit members, for national action to defeat all moves in Congress to weaken or repeal U. S. immigration laws.

A special message in the Legion's "Firing Line," bi-monthly policy bulletin, instructed more than 30,000 Legion Posts and Auxiliary Units to take specific steps in the national drive. At the same time, 4,000 phonograph records and 200 tapes for radio stations carrying vocal instructions issued by the National Commander, W. C. "Dan" Daniel, were sent to key Legion Posts.

Both the "Firing Line" orders and the instructions issued vocally by National Commander Daniel, directed Post and Auxiliary Unit members to write, telegraph and telephone Senators and Congressmen that they want no tampering with the protection afforded by the U. S. Immigration and Nationality Act (McCarran-Walter Law). The dual written and verbal orders executed a resolution adopted unanimously by the Legion membership at their 1956 annual convention.

Campaign

"The 1957 Communist campaign to utterly destroy American immigration law has moved into vicious, well-financed and effective high gear," warned the Legion's special bulletin.

"The simple but clever Communist tactic of persuading well-meaning liberals, and the public, that the Red drive against the Immigration and Nationality Act is no Communist move at all—that it is simply a program of wise and moderate amendments — has fooled some legislators again. These legislators have reintroduced in Congress seemingly moderate proposals which, if adopted, would actually wipe out every protection now in the law against unrestricted, unscreened, almost unlimited foreign immigration into the United States. This situation is dangerous in the extreme."

Advocates of repeal and amendments badly weakening immigration law came so close to winning in 1956 that amending bills were actually adopted by the Senate, the "Firing Line" reminded Legionnaires. Unless American voters tell Congress how they feel about immigration protection, said the message, patriotic legislators can no longer hold off the enemy. A blunt Legion analysis outlined the grim crisis of 1957 in Congress:

"Only a spontaneous, powerful expression from the voters, directed to their legislators by mail, telegraph, telephone and personal visits, can avert crushing Free World defeat in this crisis. Otherwise, Communism's contrived and organized clamor may induce congressional action permitting—rather, inviting—an entire dissatified world's underprivileged to come and settle permanently in the United States.

"Never before have the minority pressure organizations been so united or determined to destroy major security law. Nor have they heretofore been so quietly powerful."

Show Tickets On Sale At Newfoundland

NEWFOUNDLAND — Tickets have gone on sale for the personal appearance of Rusty and Doug and The Music Makers in the local school auditorium, Friday, May 31, according to an announcement by Clayton Northup, faculty advisor to the Greene-Dreher-Sterling chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

The star unit of The World's Original WWVA Jamboree, Wheeling, W. Va., will make its first northeastern Pennsylvania appearances in nearly a year on the local stage under the auspices of the local vocational agricultural organization.

Northup announced that those attending will be treated to four full hours of entertainment beginning at 8 p.m. with a one-and-one-half hour stage show, followed by dancing, both modern and old time.

Poll

Rusty and Doug, in addition to their Jamboree affiliation, are heard on coast-to-coast radio on "CBS Saturday Night Country Style" and on Hickory records. Named "the most promising country music duet" by the juke box operators of America in a recent "Cashbox" poll, the youthful pair are living up to that honor if the frequency with which their records are played on area radio stations is any indication.

Rusty and Doug burst on the country music scene about three years ago with a recording of "Hey, You There," which rose to number three in popularity in the nation. Since that time their music, most of which is of their own composition, has been accepted with each subsequent record release, with their latest, "Money," another hit parade choice.

Their stage repertoire includes the music peculiar to their native bayou country of Louisiana — "Cajun" — as well as the traditional American folk music and the modern "rock and roll."

FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Generous influences for most trades, professions, occupations. Keep in the swim of things; show your capability but shun arrogance. Be cooperative.

April 21 to May 22 (Taurus)—This should, and can be a progressive, productive and happy day for you and your interests. New matters are equally favored with familiar and unfinished business. Work well so that you may enjoy the week-end.

May 23 to June 21 (Gemini)—A day to stimulate your good intentions and good deeds. Both practical and artistic matters, as well as mental work favored; you are slated for refreshing gains, benefits, advancement.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You can atone now for periods when you were lackadaisical, lacking in ambition. Double your efforts, finish incompleted tasks, start new projects, get things in line generally. Profits are indicated.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Abundant reasons here for really hard striving, in profession, trade, scientific work, research, skilled workmanship, writings, AND many important "little" tasks.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Influences similar to those of Gemini. Fine aspects for launching new ventures, augmenting present holdings and completing tasks already started. Enjoy the week-end.

YOU BORN TODAY are strong, able, a delightful personality; interesting, helpful, generous—a vital person. At times you are misunderstood, underrated because you often talk too much to cover up a really sensitive nature. Don't fear the censorship of others, they can encourage and enjoy your accomplishments. Confide in family and trusted friends but be wary of those who flatter you to further their own desires. Cultivate your many talents; they can be of great value later in life. Birthdate: Victoria, Queen of Eng.

Atomic Union Approves Pact

DENVER, May 22 (AP) — The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union is approving new contracts on the basis of a 6 per cent increase in pay plus additional benefits, President O. A. Knight announced today.

He said the increase averages 16 cents an hour, up 16 cents an hour in pay and other benefits totaling at least an additional 2 cents. He said the pay boost brings the average basic hourly wage to $2.81.

Other benefits include four weeks annual vacation after 20 years instead of after 25 and an increase to eight in the number of paid holidays with double time and a half for those worked.

Companies which have agreed to the 6 per cent wage increase and improvements in holidays and vacations, at one or more plants, Knight said, include Gulf, Texas Co., Phillips, Warren, Magnolia, Carter and Atlantic.

Western Poconos Plan For Season

BRODHEADSVILLE—The final meeting for members-at-large of the Western Pocono Vacation Assn. was held this week at Brodheadsville Inn.

Attendance, according to Harry Sulthaus, secretary, was good and all old business on the agenda was closed satisfactorily for the current vacation season.

A nominating committee consisting of Floyd Altemose, Graden Praetorius, Wittold Tilwick, Rudy Muller and Joe Casaer was named by the president. This committee will report on elective names at the fall meeting which will be held in the west end September 9. Regular officers and board of governor vacancies will be held then at the November election.

New Edition

The new edition of the WPVA directory will be distributed to association members some time this week. It is reported to contain a directional map, resort listings and advertisers guide.

Following the meeting A. C. Beers of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service spoke on the new Pocono area training school which will get under way as a free service at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. Under the PSES plan local residents may avail themselves of the service either to learn a waiter's or waitress' trade or to hire trained personnel to work at the many vacation resorts in the Pocono Mountain area.

Monroe County Unit Provides Service For Cancer Patients

A SERVICE program for cancer patients is a vital part of the work of the Monroe County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

The mid-year activities report issued yesterday by the cancer society revealed that 17,874 cancer dressings were given to patients from Sept. 1 to May 1.

"Dressings that otherwise might cost a family hundreds of dollars were given free of charge to 23 patients," reported Mrs. Kenneth Eshback, Service Chairman.

"Cancer patients require many kinds of dressings and large numbers of them. The American Cancer Society is able to produce these dressings for less than two cents each because they are made by volunteers who sew and pack the materials to medical specifications."

Mrs. Eshback said that white goods used for dressings are donated by local residents to the Monroe County Unit. Seventy-five women meet once a month throughout the year to make them. Mrs. Eshback is chairman of the dressings group.

"If it were possible to put a dollars and cents value on all volunteer work, I'm sure the figure would be extremely high," Mrs. Eshback declared.

Mrs. Edward DePuy reported that the service program lessened the economic burden of cancer in 24 homes where needy patients received 270 visiting nurse service calls.

"Comforting articles from our loan closet aided 10 patients and three patients who could not afford medications received them through the Monroe County Unit."

In the state-wide service program of the American Cancer Society, 806,262 dressings were provided to 1,708 patients and 15,491 visiting nurse calls were made on 1,146 patients.

Smith Denies Murder Charge In Court

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 23 (AP)—Edgar Smith, 23, denied on the witness tand today that he killed Victoria Zielinski, 15, and said he lied when he gave an incriminating statement to police upon his arrest.

On trial for murder, the ex-Marine—a handsome clean-cut looking father of an infant—gave a ringing "I did not, sir" when his attorney asked him if he had killed the schoolgirl.

Later, under cross-examination, he was asked about the 60-page unsigned statement he made to police.

"I lied and made that story up out of my imagination," he calmly told Prosecutor Guy W. Calissi.

"Although some answers were incriminating, you made them up?" asked Calissi.

"Yes."

Reason

Again and again, both in direct testimony and cross-examination, Smith gave his reason: He was afraid of threats made by an expal, Donald Hommell, whom he has sought to incriminate.

"I was afraid if I squealed of what would happen to my wife and baby," he said, asserting that Hommell had threatened them.

Replying to questions from his attorney, John E. Selser, Smith denied that the former Wayne County, Pa., girl had been dead in his presence or that he was the man who struck her with rocks in the lonely gravel pit where she was slain on March 4.

The blonde, trim Smith spoke confidently, but occasionally he tugged at his chin nervously.

Selser held up the girl's blood-soaked sweater and asked if Smith had ever seen it before.

"I did not," the defendant replied.

It was the second day on the stand for him. Both days he repeated that Hommell, 21, a drug store clerk, was with the girl in the Mahway gravel pit when he saw her last.

Hommell denied Monday that he had ever been in the pit and said he could account for every movement he made that fatal night.

As spectators stood four deep in the courtroom today, Calissi attempted to cast doubt on Smith's story that he was afraid of Hommell.

He said that when Smith was taken to the gravel pit upon his arrest a few days after the Ramsey girl's slaying, he had suggested that police make Hommell "the fall guy."

Calissi asked if Smith weren't afraid at that time. Smith said he wasn't.

Calissi asked if Smith hadn't told him once that he thought Hommell might have been kidding. Smith replied that at one time he wasn't sure.

In his testimony yesterday, Smith said he picked up the girl as she was walking home from a friend's house. He gave this version:

The drove to the gravel pit to talk at the girl's suggestion. There she told him his wife was two-timing him. He slapped her and she left the car. He got out of the car to see how to back from the pit.

Suddenly he heard a commotion and the girl showed up, battered and bleeding, in the company of Hommell. Then, Smith continued, Hommell said the girl had fallen and that he would take her to a doctor.

Hommell has denied the whole story.

Postal Rates Bill Advances Big Step

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — The Eisenhower administration bill to raise postal rates advanced an important step forward. with approval by the House Post Office Committee today.

Among other things the cost of a three-cent letter would go to four cents.

Chairman Murray (D-Tenn) announced the approval of the bill by a "decisive majority" and said he would try to get it on the House floor next week.

The House passed such a bill last year but it never got out of a subcommittee in the Senate.

This year's measure would raise postal charges an estimated 462 million dollars in the year beginning July 1 and the total annual increase would climb to 527½ million dollars by 1961 on the basis of present volume of mail.

Stages

The House committee has been voting in stages on the bill. The most important raise—on first-class letters and airmail letters—was voted by the committee May 7.

President Eisenhower asked for the increases to cut into the annual deficit of the Post Office, which is estimated at 650 million dollars in the new fiscal year. Eisenhower's budget, now going through Congress, anticipates the raises will be voted.

If the bill is finally passed, the following raises will go into effect July 1:

First-class—letters to 4 cents per ounce. Post cards and drop letters from 2 to 3 cents. Drop letters are those mailed to post offices where there is no local delivery and residents pick up their mail at the post offices. Airmail letters 7 cents per ounce. Airmail cards to 5 cents.

Second Class

Second-class — Magazines and newspapers, four successive annual 15 per cent raises.

Third-class— Mostly advertising matters, a two-step increase to 3 cents for the first two ounces per ounce; and to 2 cents this year to 2.5 cents by July 1, 1959, on the bulk minimum rate for circulars and merchandise.

The Post Office Department has predicted that the only reduction in volume that these higher rates would bring about would be in third-class mail and that would be only temporary.

The question of raising postal rates is separate from the controversy over how large an appropriation Congress should grant the department.

Three Interests To Split Cost For Police

BANGOR—Union, company and borough spokesmen agreed tentatively yesterday to split the cost of additional policemen for this strike harried borough yesterday.

Central point arousing need for police protection is the strike of workers at the Blue Ridge Textile Co. The possibility of sharing cost of spare police officers was concurred in by Joseph Rader, representing the Textile Workers Union of America; Edmund Turtzo, attorney for Blue Ridge and Bangor Burgess Hayden Pritchard.

Need for more police was emphasized by Pritchard at a 4:30 p.m. meeting held by spokesmen for both sides before President Judge William Barthold, Northampton County Court.

Unable

Pritchard told the court that he had tried to get new policemen at $10 a day but had been unable to secure them. County sheriff William Hontz said that he could get two or more additional patrolmen but Turtzo said the cost would not be borne by the county in his opinion. It was then that the three representatives said they felt costs could be shared.

Turtzo said at the close of the meeting that "all the company is interested in is avoiding any recurrence of violence" in the strike. Alleged incidents of violence broke out over the past weekend.

Pritchard emphasized that a "round-the-clock" patrol of borough streets is absolutely necessary to the preservation of law and order in Bangor if the strike continues.

Nixon Backs Ike's Aid Budgets

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Vice President Nixon went down the line tonight for President Eisenhower's defense and foreign aid budgets.

"I believe that they are necessary for our survival and that substantial cuts in the amounts we have requested will jeopardize not only our safety, but our chance for victory in the world struggle," Nixon said in a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Yosko Attacks State Blue Laws

HARRISBURG, May 23 (AP) — Some of the so-called "Blue Laws" of 1794 today were criticized by a Democratic senator as "obsolete, ridiculous, unenforceable and mockery to justice."

Sen. Yosko (D-Northampton) made the claims in a resolution calling for a Joint State Government Commission study of the laws which prohibit most types of business and other operations on Sunday in Pennsylvania.

Mount Bethel Woman Suffers Injuries In Auto Accident

BANGOR — Mrs. Gloria Rice, 26, of Mount Bethel, a telephone operator in the Bangor Exchange, was injured in an automobile accident on the Bangor-East Bangor road, in the vicinity of the Exalite Corp. Plant late last night.

According to Bangor police officers Walter Heard and Sherwood Holland, Mrs. Bellis claimed she was forced off the road while driving a 1954 Dodge sedan toward East Bangor.

The car, presumably was forced off the left side of the road, went over an embankment 20 feet into a creek bed, where it hung suspended on the guard fence it broke through.

Her cries for help were heard by Arthur Catino of Roseto, a passing motorist, who with the assistance of an unidentified motorist, removed Mrs. Rice through the car's broken windshield.

Police reported that the car was near a total wreck.

Extent of Mrs. Rice's injuries were undetermined at midnight last night. She was under the care of Dr. Floyd Hess.

County Medical Society Honors Dr. Nina Price

By Leonard Randolph

DR. NINA PRICE is a grey-haired, gamin-faced woman with dancing bright eyes and a heart capable of incorporating most of Monroe County.

In the past 50 years, as a matter of fact, her heart—through selfless devotion to the profession she chose—has done almost that.

Last night Monroe County Medical Society, local service clubs and an estimated 100 persons filed into the ballroom of the Penn Stroud Hotel to pay homage to "Dr. Nina" as one of the last of a rapidly-vanishing category in American medicine—the genuine "family" doctor.

It was an "unadvertised," private affair. And when the program was half finished one of the speakers provided the main reason for that:

"We know if we noised this around there wouldn't be an auditorium in Monroe County large enough to hold all the people who would want to come to pay tribute to Dr. Price," he said.

It was an affectionate, openly-sentimental occasion. Speaker after speaker walked to the front table and claimed close and loving kinship with the small, alert woman in the place of honor.

A half-century of hard work and devotion to duty had made the night possible. It took a good sense of humor (on "Dr. Nina's" part) to balance the seriousness and respond to the jokes told by others.

Nina Price came through the broad, open double doorway into the ballroom at 7:00. Her family had told her they were taking her out to dinner. She looked in the large ballroom, peered at the men and women seated formally at the ables and said:

"There must be a mistake. There are people already eating in here."

It is characteristic of Dr. Price that she still had no real inkling of what was about to happen, even though her fellow doctors, the nurses and women's organizations have talked of little else (but not openly and never in front of her) for the past month. One of the doctors summed it up this way:

"Nina begins each day with a bunch of things to do. She sets out to get them done and she thinks of very little else all through the day. She sees her patients without fail, cooks, drives through both towns on her way to one meeting or another—but she never stops to wonder what it is that other people are talking about. She has a lot of things on her mind all the time—and she gets every last one of them done."

Much of the humor in last night's testimonial was rooted in this "on-the-go" attitude that is distinctly a part of Dr. Price—so much so, most of the speakers were at pains to point out, that "Nina doesn't even take her hat off when she's doing her housework." Dr. Nina laughed at that, as she did at the rest of the good-natured ribbing.

Her penchant for hats—all kinds of hats, but preferably hats with bright, full-petaled flowers and sunlighted colors—was a main feature of the program. Two hats were presented as gifts by admiring persons representing groups or (in the case of Frank LaBar) an individual with a personal notation. Dr. Nina sat quietly at the table, accepted the hats and tried each of them on.

LaBar's gift was a pink straw hat with a high crown of fresh-looking garden flowers. It matched the pink chiffon of the guest of honor's dress "perfectly", LaBar noted with satisfaction. The second hat came from the Business and Professional Women's Club through its president, Mrs. Lulu Harvey who also was representing the Soroptimists. It was powder blue, big and "beautiful", Dr. Nina exclaimed when she opened the Schiaparelli box and tried it on, turning it slightly and typically with a smile.

There were other presents. From Dr. Evan Reese, representing the Medical Society, came a plaque dedicated to Dr. Price by the Pennylsvania Medical Society "commemorating 50 years of service in medicine in this State" and, from the local chapter a silver tray inscribed to Dr. Price.

From the Exchange Club of East Stroudsburg, which gave its annual "Golden Deeds" award to Dr. Price in 1952, Horace G. Walters presented greetings and read the "Deeds" citation from the club book.

From the Lions Club of the Stroudsburgs through Dr. Paul Maxwell; the Kiwanis Club through Elwood Hintze and the Rotary Club through Ted Hoffman came citations each of them praising her for her "distinctive, unselfish efforts in the interest of the advancement of our communities", her "philantrophic attitude" and her "dauntless energy."

Tannersville To Be Anchor For East

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Keystone Shortway, to cross Pennsylvania between Stroudsburg and Sharon, today won long-awaited approval of the Bureau of Public Roads for inclusion in the federal interstate road system.

Bertram Tallamy, federal highways administrator, announced approval in the cross-state super-highway, in a telegram to Joseph J. Lawler, Pennsylvania secretary of highways.

An alternate rpoposal for the highway—which would have rerouted the road from the Lock Haven-Williamsport, Pa., area off toward Port Jervis, N. Y., rather than the vicinity of Stroudsburg—was rejected, George Williams, assistant commissioner for engineering, said.

While Tallamy's announcement reelected a very general description of the route, he did point out that the recommendation of the department of highways of Pennsylvania had been approved.

The only reccommendation in Washington fixes two basic termini. The western terminus is in the vicinity of Sharon, The eastern terminus of the stortway in the vicinity of Tannersville.

These two basic points are also part of the original and a supplementary report filed with the bureau of public roads with the approval of the highway department by the Michael Baker Jr. Inc., consulting engineers in charge of Keystone Shortway studies, Rochester, Pa.

"It was a matter of a few million dollars difference in total cost," Williams told a newsman. "Since the state had strongly urged that the original proposal be accepted, we went along with it."

The cost estimate for the Sharon-Stroudsburg route, as prepared by consultants for the Commonwealth, Williams said, was 269 million dollars. The alternate route, which would have headed traffic toward New England rather than New York City, would have cost an estimated 271 million, he said.

To rebuild U. S. Route 6 to meet requirements of the 41,000-mile federal road-building program, Williams said, would have cost 281 million dollars, according to figures submitted by the state.

In 1947 a route in the general locality of Route 6 was designated a part of the federal interstate network. It was at the request of Gov. Leader and the state Highways Department that the route redesignation was made. The bureau's decision had been awaited since last summer.

Advocates of the Keystone shortway and of retaining the Route 6 area designation had taken turns through the months in pressing their claims with bureau officials.

The conception of a superhighway blazing new trails cross the forests and hills of northern Pennsylvania came in the days of the New York World's Fair in 1938-39.

In 1955, the State Legislature authorized construction of the shortway as an extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike system. Other extensions had priority, however, and nothing was done immediately about the Shortway.

Later it was suggested that the shortway be substituted for Route 6 as northern Pennsylvania's link in the federal network.

Approval of the Shortway means the federal government will pay 90 per cent of the cost of the toll-free, limited access road. Completion, however, is not expected before 10 to 13 years.

Construction of the Shortway will not mean abandonment of Route 6. It will be retained in the federal aid primary road system and will be improved as a scenic route with the federal government and state each paying 50 per cent of the cost.

Tallamy's announcement met with the hearty approval of a number of Pennsylvania congressmen.

Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa) said the road could help bring new industry to economically depressed areas in his district.

Rep. Walter (D-Pa) hailed it as "great news" which has been "long awaited."

Tallamy's telegram to Lawler and other interested persons said the Shortway "will extend from a point on the Ohio - Pennsylvania line where adequate connections can be made to the routing in the vicinity of Youngstown, easterly to

Thunderstorms Drench Much Of Nation

By The Associated Press

THUNDERSTORMS and scattered showers drenched much of the nation Thursday, and occasional outbursts of violent winds and rains pummelled northern and central sections of Texas.

A tornado ripped through Winters, south of Abilene in central Texas, damaging an oil rig and injuring at least one person.

Heavy rains in southeastern Missouri and Arkansas sent more streams shooting out of their banks. Harviell, a town of 200 five miles south of Poplar Bluff, Mo., was isolated by rampaging waters of Cane Creek. The rising waters forced evacuation of some homes in the Missouri-Arkansas storm area.

The heaviest rainfall was reported in a band from eastern Oklahoma, northeast Texas, Arkansas, southern Missouri, southern Illinois and Indiana and the western two-thirds of Kentucky.

Flash floods hit southern Illinois and in two cities—Harrisburg and Marion—about 60 families were evacuated from their homes. A U. S. Weather spokesman at Cairo said, however, that the Ohio, Wabash and Mississippi Rivers should be able to handle the runoff.

Showers also were scattered over the western third of the country. Thunderstorms ranged over Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and southern California, and in the Gulf and Southeastern States.

Temperatures across the nation ranged from 90 degree readings in the Southeast to 55 and 60 in the Far West. Cool air in the plains and Mississippi Valley held temperatures down to the 50s and 60s.

U.S. Believed Working On Agreement

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The United States is reported working for a "first step" disarmament treaty with Russia and other nations which could lead to pledges by nonatomic countries against acquiring nuclear weapons.

The plan also envisions a small cut in armaments by Russia and the Western powers, especially of heavy weapons, missiles and planes capable of delivering atomic-hydrogen bombs.

Countries would turn over weapons they agreed to cut from their armed forces to specified inspection depots which would be supervised by a United Nations organization.

The agreement would initially be concluded by the nations now represented at the London disarmament talks: Russia, the United States, Britain, Canada and France. But it would be open to other nations which wished to join, provided they pledged not to further complicate the world arms picture by seeking to manufacture or acquire atomic-hydrogen weapons.

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Sen. Morse (D-Ore) led a sharp attack on the long-range aspects of President Eisenhower's foreign aid program today. He declared they involved "a dangerous extension of arbitrary executive power."

Siamese Twins Separated In Four-Hour Operation

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 23 (AP) — The Freeman Siamese twins, born face to face and joined at the abdomen, were cut apart today in a four-hour operation at North Side Hospital.

The team of doctors, including four surgeons, called the operation successful and said they foresee no difficulties unless there is an infection or excess bleeding in the severed liver. That was the only organ which the boys shared.

Barring complications, the hospital said, frail Mrs. William Freeman, 23, who weighs less than 100 pounds, may be able to take her two boys home in a little more than two weeks.

The boys, James Edward and John Nelson, were delivered by caesarean section April 26.

Members of the team of 10 doctors and five nurses—all from Youngstown — had prepared for the operation by studying color films of a similar operation made recently at Hammersmith Hospital in London.

Salesman

Freeman, a furnace salesman, and his wife also were shown the films so they would know what their children were going through.

Color films also were made of today's operation.

The hospital said surgeons ran into difficulty when they found the connection at the liver was larger than had been expected. The connection was so large the doctors spoke of the separation as "dividing a common liver." That was the major part of the operation.

The doctors said the most difficult phase, however, was administering the anaesthetic. Three anaesthesiologists were on hand to help out.

Otherwise, the doctors said, the operation went off about as expected and the condition of the the twins remained satisfactory throughout.

Freeman, who is in his early 30s, went to the hospital early this morning before the operation was to begin. But newsmen were unable to find him during or immediately after the operation.

Wilson Fights Against Cuts In Budget

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Pungent as ever, Secretary of Defense Wilson told senators today that proposed defense fund cuts would snatch away President Eisenhower's cards and chips in the "international poker game" of disarmament.

He cautioned against "gambling unwisely" with national security by risking reductions in military outlays on uncertain hopes the world situation will improve.

Allusion

Backed by the Pentagon's high command, Wilson told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee: "I think this is an awful poor time to take the cards and chips away from the President, Foster Dulles and Harold Stassen when they are engaged in this international poker game."

This was an allusion to the recessed East-West disarmament talks in London in which Stassen is the chief U.S. negotiator.

Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, supporting Wilson, testified that large cuts in the military budget "would risk the security of the nation and the free world."

AFL-CIO Cracks Down On Unions

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The AFL-CIO Executive Council today cracked down on three unions involved in welfare fund scandals.

The council suspended the 85,000-member Laundry Workers Union pending formal expulsion at the federation's next convention in December.

The council also put two other unions — the Allied Industrial Workers, with 75,000 members, and the Distillery Workers, with 30,000—on a year's probation during which AFL-CIO representatives will "monitor" their operations.

Some Steps

All three unions had taken some steps toward meeting AFL-CIO requirements for a clean-up after a Senate committee turned up alleged welfare funds frauds two years ago. The committee was headed by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill).

The council said it was completely dissatisfied with the response of the Laundry Workers and therefore suspension and eventual ouster from federation ranks was warranted. It said it was only "partially" satisfied with corrective steps taken by the other two, hence the probationary period.

In the case of the Laundry Workers, AFL - CIO President George Meany said hearings before the Senate committee showed nearly a million dollars in union members' insurance funds had been in custody of Eugene C. James, now resigned secretary-treasurer of the Laundry Workers. But Meany said that James, never indicted in the case, still is a union member and apparently manipulated a recent Laundry Workers convention.

Sam J. Byers retired as union president at the convention.

Commissioners Claim Study On Tax Equalization Complete

Expect Bid Advertising In 30 Days

By Leonard Randolph

COUNTY Commissioners this week said that a "study" of the amount of work done on the tax equalization program is now "absolutely complete."

The study has been made, at Commissoiners request, by George Brands, chief assessor and J. Joseph McCluskey, a local attorney working wih L. A. Achterman, County solicitor.

Walter Melnikoff, chairman of a County Parent-Teachers Assn. Council sub-committee appointed to meet with commissioners, said last night that commissioners had told him:

That they will be ready to advertise for bids on completion of the job "within 30 days."

Solicitor Achterman said last night that this certainly is a broad estimate. Achterman said he would "need only a day or so to look over the report before we can advertise for bids."

The solicitor said that although the study is complete a formal written report has still not been finished. He said he could not act until this is done.

Commissioners and Achterman have taken the stand that they must know how much work has been completed before they advertise for bids on finishing the assessment revision program required by law.

Local attorneys, however, have taken exception to this stand. They maintain, in contacts with this reporter, that no matter what the county study shows on work previously done "any firm which bids on the job will still come in and conduct its own study of work already completed before they'll bid."

One attorney, who didn't want to be named, told The Record last night: "No firm is going to submit a blind bid on completing this job. They'll come in and make their own survey anyway, so there's no connection between making the county-appointed study and getting the job finished."

Melnikoff said that all three commissioners agreed that the survey of work done by John Aicher Associates and J. L. Jacobs Co. is now "absolutely complete."

But commissioners told him that "nothing will be done on the program to help local school district this year," Melnikoff said.

All three commissioners—John R. Lesoine, chairman and Willard Quick, both Democrats, and W. Adolph Rake, the minority Republican commissioners—were also in agreement that the program "will be completed by the last of 1958", Melnikoff said, "and no sooner."

Previously commissioners had told county school directors that they hoped the program would be finished by January of 1958. That, orginally, was the State deadline for completion of tax equalization systems in fourth to eighth class counties.

The legislature recently put off the deadline on the State-mandated law. In a controversial move which was strongly opposed by some legislators, they set the deadline date at January, 1959—a delay of a full year.

Melnikoff said that two commissioners—Lesoine and Quick—told him they are in "firm agreement" that if local assessors want to raise assessments to an appropriate one-third of market value they (the commissioners) will be "glad to request that they do so."

The PTA sub-committee chairman said that Rake abstained from comment on this matter. Rake has refused, in the past, to take any action one way or the other on any vote involving tax equalization.

Lesoine and Quick reiterated their stand that the commission does not "control" local assessors, however and that they cannot "compel" them to take "any action," Melnikoff said.

Citizens Committee Continues 'A' Attack

By Bill Berry

"A CHEAPER and better highway," maintained Arthur Trogner, "can be built along the proposed plan 'F' route."

Trogner, who is the chairman of the Citizens' Committee, spoke before an open meeting of the committee last night at the East Stroudsburg Junior High School. About 75 vitally interested spectators listened attentively to Trogner and Edwin Buck, a member of the executive committee as they discussed the merits of their proposed route for the highway-bypass for the recently approved Sharon-Stroudsburg Thruway.

"This was supposed to be an open meeting," he stated, "and we invited the advocates of the plan 'A' to speak this evening. But they haven't attended."

"Further," he charged, "they don't want to discuss the route which so vitally affects the lives of residents of Monroe County. They want to force it through with a minimum of debate and publicity."

When confronted by a member of the audience as to who these parties are, he refused to answer.

The bulk of the attack on plan "A" by Trogner and Buck centered around the charges that it is outmoded and dangerous to run a major highway through a city. "In fact," said Trogner, "the engineer who has approved these conceded that the modern manner is to circumvent the municipalities, but that Stroudsburg is a different situation." The uniqueness, it developed, was that there was an attempt in the minds of the planners to run the local traffic into the mainstream of highway traffic.

"This, too, will not work," Trogner demonstrated, "because this is a 'limited access' road." In other words, the cars cannot enter and exit at will, because there are only a few designated interchanges, means of egress and ingress.

Further, Buck maintained that the charge that plan "A" is less expensive than plan "F"—which circumvents the municipality—is preposterous. "It would necessitate the building of an additional highway from Snydersville, to connect route 209 with the bypass, an expenditure of $4,500,000 above and beyond the cost of the bypass itself in order to qualify for the 90 per cent Federal subsidation."

"And this," added Trogner, "will not be subsidized in reality, because the citizens of the area must make up the difference in the taxable real estate by paying heavier taxes."

The allegation that plan "F" was longer in distance than "A" was dispoved by Trogner as he demonstrated on a slide-projected map that the distance of the two proposed bypasses was identical—without the additional highway which is necessitated by plan "A."

Even in the matter of the proposed accesses on the respective plans, Buck purports that his are the more logical, "and it keeps the trucks out of the residential areas, and the cars off of Main Street." In addition, he maintained that theirs are more plentiful and provide more logical access to the area.

Only a quarter of the families will be displaced under Plan "F," according to Trogner. Buck added: "It is not a pleasant sight to see 80 families, searching for homes in an area where realty has suddenly become dear."

When pressed during the question period, he stated that the only person who seems to be in favor of the proposed bypass is an engineer. He then quoted from the Engineering News-Record—a trade publication—to this effect: "Highways are too important to leave to highway engineers." This was a quote attributed to John T. Howard, associate professor of city planning at MIT.

The Delaware Water Gap group, led by C. E. Shafer and Steve Matos, spoke out against both plans, advocating either of the earlier routes. Both "A" and "F"—although the former more than the latter—virtually strangle the Gap and Shawnee.

Trogner closed the meeting, which was moderated by the Rev. Harold C. Eaton, of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, with an entreaty to write to the governor in favor of plan "F." The plans have been filed with the State Highway Department, and a copy with the Bureau of Public Roads.

Flash Storm Hits County

HEAVY rainfall, mixed with hail and a brilliant display of lightning, fell across Monroe County late last night.

Except for power interruptions, the damage was confined to broken tree limbs and overflowing storm sewers, a check revealed.

The storm broke shortly before 10 p.m. Hail fell in Stroudsburg and scattered other sections. The rain continued for more than an hour.

Williams pointed out that the approval was of merely the general routing of the road. Exact details still remain to be ironed out in the long-range project.

Although the alternate plan of veering the road off in the direction of Port Jervis, N. Y., was rejected, another interstate route remains on the books connecting Harrisburg, Hazleton, Wilkes-Barre-Scranton, Port Jervis and Danbury, Conn.

Father 'Gives In'

ELMIRA, N.Y., May 23 (AP)—The father of an 18-year-old boy charged with burglary put up $1,100 bail today for his son to whom he had written earlier this week: "Getting you out of jail right now wouldn't solve anything. . . . It wouldn't do you a bit of harm to sit there and think about it a few weeks."

Eastern Poconos Hold Yearly Banquet

ECHO LAKE — Announcement that the Keystone Shortway had been approved by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads yesterday was made at the 10th anniversary banquet of the Eastern Pocono Resort Assn. last night here at Werry's Sunnybrook.

The announcement was made by Horace G. Heller, general manager of Pocono Record, Inc. Attending the banquet was an overflow crowd of 330 members and guests.

Program

William J. Altier, EPRA president, was master of ceremonies at the brief program.

Introduced were Harold A. Swenson, director, state Vacation and Recreation Bureau; R. F. Irwin, general agent, Lackawanna Railroad; J. Horace Strunk, executive secretary, Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. John Meyer, office secretary to Strunk; Mrs. Chester White, in charge of the resort information booth at Marshalls Creek; John F. Hill, editor, The Daily Record; Alfred J. Baxter, EPRA secretary and chairman of arrangements. Hal Hamlen asked the invocation.

Applications For Pageant

ALL LOCAL organizations, such as civic and social clubs and sororities have been asked to sponsor entrants in the Miss Pocono Mountains Talent Hunt.

No Obligations

There is no obligation of the club or organization further than the actual sponsoring. The annual Miss America pageant in Atlantic City makes a substantial cash award to the outfit which sponsored the present Miss America.

Of the various entrants, the entries committee will select 12 finalists for the June 18 finals.

These applications can be obtained from the Daily Record, radio station WVPO, the YMCA office, and Mrs. Jack Shinn or Mrs. Holt Wyckoff, the chairmen of the entries committee.

by Arlington Williams, a past president. A life membership in the General Hospital Auxiliary was presented by Mrs. Gilbert Barthold. Praise came also from Mrs. Thomas I. Metzgar, Anna Logan Society; Mrs. Claude Leister, Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs; orchids from the Medical Auxiliary; from Mrs. Elmer Veety, American Association of University Women; Mrs. Lorraine Krakowski, Visiting Nurse Association of Monroe County; Mrs. Esther Musselman, Monroe County Nurses Association.

But no one could present, in a well-tied package the love and honest affection the men and women felt for the woman who was being honored. They applauded her 14 times and stood up for six of those ovations. They applauded the members of her family, her husband (A. M. Price) and the work that each of them had done.

When it was nearly over Frank LaBar told the group:

Happy

"I'm happy to be a part of this occasion honoring a woman who has done with her life what I think people should do — spend it for something that will outlast them. No doctor in this room has exceeded the heartwarming work this woman doctor has done in and for Monroe county."

Nina Price stood up to make her small speech of thanks in a voice that is obviously unaccustomed to addressing large groups — especially of a hundred people who have come to say "thanks" to her. She said what she had to say hesitantly:

"Did you ever dream that you were walking down a street or you were in a room filled with people and you suddenly realized you'd forgotten your shoes or something?

"Well, I feel like that now. I'm also sure I'll wake up any minute and find out that I have on a hospital gown and I'm wearing a bedpan for a hat or some crazy thing like that."

The audience roared. It was the right joke at the right moment. Without it, there wouldn't have been a dry eye in the house.

Serious

Then Dr. Nina was serious again. She wanted to set something straight, she said.

"I don't know why you feel that I've done so much and not been repaid. I've had more fun in my work than I could ever have had any other way and I've been repaid a thousand times.

"I've gotten so much and I've had so much from everything I've done and everyone I know."

The real sum of Dr. Nina's life in Monroe county was not present in the room with the openly-affectionate men and women with whom she works, however.

It was a total which could be found only in hundreds of Monroe County homes, in the obscure backwoods cabins and the overcrowded apartments in the seldom-mentioned tenement sections of the boroughs. It was in these dim corners that Dr. Nina Price had left her deepest and greatest gifts.

She is, after all, a dedicated woman who believes firmly in what she is doing.

And what she is doing — like the story of her 50 years which will be told, in part here — is "to be continued."

Ethel West Injured In Accident

MRS. ETHEL West, executive secretary of Monroe County Community Chest, is a patient in Overlook Hospital, Summit, N.J., receiving treatment for injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

She suffered an injured shoulder Sunday when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by another vehicle in Millburn, N.J., not far from Summit.

Operation

Mrs. West underwent an operation on the shoulder yesterday and the hospital said her condition was good.

The car in which she was riding was driven by Mrs. Mildred Weierbach, of Millburn, formerly of Stroudsburg, who was reported uninjured.

Planning Commission Merits Full Support

Virtually grounded since it was appointed late in 1955, Monroe County Planning Commission is about ready to launch its ship of state on a course which we hope will culminate in greater regional prosperity and a measure of orderly planning not now possible.

The commission chairman, George T. Robinson, and the other members are to be commended for arranging a meeting with the county commissioners for June 12 to explore the scope of the whole function of the Planning Commission.

One of the nation's foremost planning consultants, Clifton E. Rodgers, of Beaver Falls, has agreed to address the joint session.

He is expected to enumerate many of the advantages that have accrued in progressive communities which have set up active planning commissions. Mr. Rodgers also will be asked to approximate the cost of getting the county planning program on a functioning basis and for keeping it an active force for the common good. In this connection, he will outline possible sources of state and federal aid.

The Planning Commission was appointed by the former board of county commissioners and continued in office under the present board. It is non-partisan in nature. Its members receive no salaries or fees. They represent all sections of the county.

The commission's sole purpose is to bring about civic improvements along a well defined plan looking ahead to the orderly growth of the entire county. Its functions are purely advisory.

The Planning Commission may hire a planning consultant to study the county's physical assets and shortcomings. A regional plan is then drawn up for both immediate and long-range civic improvements.

The commission shall supplement the consultant's report with recommendations of its own from time to time on matters having regard for present conditions and future needs and growth of the county.

It can encourage the cooperation of the political subdivisions within the county in matters concerning the county plan. The commission also may make recommendations to public authorities, any corporations or individuals with reference to any buildings, structures or works to be erected by them.

Monroe County sorely needs the services of an active Planning Commission. It cannot expect to progress satisfactorily unless it builds along an orderly pattern designed for the future. Any hodge-podge development will destroy property values, encourage business and industry to move elsewhere and result in a deterioration of the entire community.

The Monroe County Planning Commission deserves the full support of every governing body and every citizen if it is to accomplish its purpose. Stated simply, this purpose is to build for a bigger and better community.

New Industry For Pennsylvania

A UNIQUE meeting was held in Harrisburg last week which brought together officials of the State Department of Commerce, of the State and local Chambers of Commerce and other business and industrial groups interested in getting new industries—and new payrolls—for Pennsylvania.

Statistics on this subject have been pretty sombre for some time. For various reasons, including high state taxes, Pennsylvania hasn't been expanding as rapidly as some of its competing states. We've got more areas of substantial labor surplus than any other state.

In short, we've got many people who are out of jobs, even though they're willing and capable workers, and we've got whole communities which need industries to shore up their economic base and enable their populations to earn a living.

Lately, however, the sound of our prospects has been somewhat better. Tax changes are in the works that will help equalize the tax costs of Pennsylvania industry with those of other states. And, through adversity, we've been learning how to help ourselves.

State Secretary of Commerce William R. Davlin told the Industrial Development Clinic that the so-called "Scranton Plan," which was developed to equip that city with new industries, has been spreading.

"Our count shows that 80 Pennsylvania communities have, mainly since the war, built some 110 factory buildings at a cost of 44 million dollars that provide jobs for 28,000 factory workers," he said. "In other words, there is no just one 'Scranton Plan' there are at least 79 others just like it. And there will be more."

Mr. Davlin noted that the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority, set up by the last Legislature, will ease the burden of such local boot-strap operations. Under that plan, the local community provides 20 per cent of the cost of a new plant, banks take 50 per cent of the cost on first mortgages, and the state authority takes 30 per cent on a second mortgage.

This plan got a late start last year and has been in operation only nine months. But the loans already made or committed or being processed will use up most of the five million dollars provided by the Legislature. The Department is asking another similar appropriation.

This wasn't all the industrial expansion in the state. Last year, Mr. Davlin said, manufacturing companies announced 363 projects for Pennsylvania, of which 223 were expansions, 84 new plants and 56 idle plants put back into production.

Pennsylvania is far from dying on the vine, industrially, Mr. Davlin concludes, and there's no reason why we can't speed up expansion. He pointed out that many authorities predict continuing industrial expansion through the year 1965, along with population increases.

"Here, then, is our industrial development market," he said. "We will not get our share automatically. But if Pennsylvania communities, utilities, railroads, realtors and the state government continue to work together at it, Pennsylvania can get more than her share."

Mr. Davlin's our top man in industrial development, and we'll do well to heed his advice. The program on which he is working got bi-partisan support in the last Legislature and merits the same sort of consideration now.—Pittsburgh Press.

George Sokolsky Says...

Money Power Of Labor Leaders Compared With Big Business Policies In 1890s

Each generation discovers what has long existed as something startlingly new. Labor racketeering seems such a new discovery in the year 1957, although it has been usual in American labor for a century. Back in the days of the Knights of Labor, there was a racket called the Home Club which while posing as a labor organization actually worked for the bosses. These days it would be called a company union. The building trades back in the early days were particularly notorious because the business agents of the unions speeded up or slowed down work according to the deals that were made with them personally.

The kick-back was an old-form of union racketeering. The kick-back was, in effect, a reduction in wages, part of it going to the foreman or a bookkeeper, but eventually making its way into the pockets of the boss. A kick-back is impossible unless the officials of the labor union agreed to it and for such an agreement they got a rake-off. There are all sorts of ways of turning union activity into petty private enterprise.

Today the kick-back would be chicken feed because wherever there is a closed shop or a union shop, the take is so big that union officials, except those way down the line, would not bother wtih such small amounts.

By singling out Dave Beck and his union as currupt, some of the labor leaders are sure that they have taken the monkeys off their own backs, which is something we still have to see. What is necessary is a complete, overall study of the money prize in American trade unionism.

When a labor leader has absolute and personal control of a quarter of a billion dollars of public funds, for which he is in no manner bound to account, then he is a dangerous person because he can use that money honestly or corruptly at will. No citizens other than labor leaders are so empowered. No group could accumulate such funds without Treasury supervision and control.

The claim is constantly being made that certain labor leaders work with the "mob" and that others do not. The term, mob, is intended to give the impression that sinister forces, gangsters, racketeers, murderers have formed a conspiracy with labor leaders to control the production and distribution of goods.

Again, it is nothing new in American labor relations and the unions which are now praised for their purity have a long history of such associations. In fact, the garment industry of New York which these days is praised as superior to Dave Beck's teamsters at one stage found gangsters on both the union and industry side.

It is supposed to be high strategy in labor circles to speak well of certain labor leaders and to denounce others because of their relations to the "mob." Taking the history of all the unions, over all the years of their existence, it is impossible to discover such puritanism as we are now asked to recognize. It is the repetition of the big lie that makes such labor leaders little angels in 1957 who were quite devilish in the 1930s. Are we all supposed to lose our memories?

Until the money prize in trade unionism is abolished, so that being a labor leader ceases to be a profitable enterprise but becomes a job with a fixed salary and nothing more—until that happens, the money prize in labor union leadership becomes a lodestone for a political type of individual who unites with others of the same kind of person to make what he can out of it.

Some men seek power; others money. Some work for both. But no labor leader can afford, under present circumstances, to live among his fellows strictly on his salary without an expense account and without access to strike funds, educational funds and welfare funds. A close analysis of the political expenditures of unions is more important nationally than Dave Beck's Fifth Amendment pleas.

The enormous money power of these labor leaders is having the same effect upon politics as the use of money by big business in the 1890s. In fact, it is getting so that in many places the only people with ready cash are labor leaders and those who work the angles. It gives a man power to have ready cash these days.

Cranberry Article In Publication

By Jim Riley

A story on the Cranberry Bog, located between Tannersville and Cherry Lane, appears in the current issue of the Pennsylvania Game News.

The article is written by Dr. William Niering, professor at Connecticut, and a 1942 graduate of Pocono High School, Tannersville.

Bill, the man who led the fight to keep the bog in its natural state, reveals the workings of the project and the many little things that were put together to make it a success.

He politely thanks everyone who assisted in raising money to purchase the property covered by the bog and also touches on a few of the secrets hidden within the glacier-made bog.

The Cranberry Bog is now nationally famous and may someday be internationally known. The guy to thank for the entire program is Bill Niering—the man who refused to call it quits despite a number of obstacles.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Hope For Arthritic And Diabetes Cases

Washington, May 23—Medical research is scoring an epic victory over a malady that has blinded thousands of premature babies every year.

Retrolental fibroplasia is now "well on the way toward being conquered."

And the millions of arthritic and diabetes sufferers can definitely look forward to much improved drugs in the foreseeable future. New ones undergoing extensive tests offer that stirring hope.

Significant progress is also being made in the highly complex and difficult struggle against cerebral palsy, epilepsy, tuberculosis, deafness and allergies.

These are outstanding features of a comprehensive report on notable achievements in medical research that will be published as an official document by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Titled "Highlights of Research Progress for 1956," the 200-page study was prepared by experts of the famed National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md. It is the first survey of its kind to be put out by this powerful Senate Committee.

Copies can be obtained by writing Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.), head of the subcommittee in charge of the institutes' budget, or other senators.

The report bluntly stresses there are still no cures for these diseases.

But in the meanwhile "significant advances continue to be made in treating the victims of these disorders, and exciting developments of a practical nature can be predicted."

What's Been Done—Two drugs are singled out in the report as having "exciting potentialities" in treating arthritis and diabetes.

Both drugs are still being tested. It is carefully emphasized no conclusions can yet be drawn. But results so far are distinctly encouraging. Following is what the study says regarding these important research developments:

"Among the new drugs recently made available for tests and clinical trials (on arthritis) is triamcinolone, which is being evaluated by the National Institute and by grantees in New York and Philadelphia. Preliminary results indicate this new drug is at least as potent as others and so far has shown fewer side effects. It is too early to be definite, but at this point it appears that triamvinolone may represent a successful attempt to improve on available drugs.

"Diabetes can be controlled but comparatively little is still known about the cause and nature of this disease. Extensive clinical tests of a new drug were conducted during the past year, and results to date are not conclusive. This drug, tolbutamide, which apparentlp is not toxic, lowered the blood sugar, one of the symptoms of diabetes, but was relatively ineffective in treating juvenile diabetes, or severely diabetic persons."

Summaries of the report's significant findings regarding the other diseases are as follows:

"CEREBRAL PALSY: In one type of cerebral palsy, kernicterus, it was found that multiple blood transfusions could to a considerable extent prevent the disease in new born babies."

"EPILEPSY: A very significant development is the tracing of patients' seizure patterns involving bizarre epileptic movements to specific and localized parts of the brain in the temporal lobe and other areas as well. Experiments with two new drugs, gamma-amino-butyrate and 2-pyrrolidinone, have reversed seizures in animals and aided humans."

"BLINDNESS: Important research finds include: A new diagnostic technique which will make possible the early detection and treatment of a virulent form of uveitis, a major blinding disease; a tool for precisely defining the location and size of brain tumors.

"Also the discovery and tracing of a nerve system linking the cochlea in the inner ear with the brain; the use of high-frequency sound waves for the precise destruction of tissues deep within animal brain, an achievement which may prove applicable to human brain surgery."

"HEARING: An Institutes scientist during the past year has made a major finding as to the relationship between the ear and the higher mental function in the brain. Knowledge of this relationship is of great importance if we are to understand the basic causes of hearing loss, as well as the cause and nature of such disorders as aphasia. The finding and tracing of oliva-cochlear bundle opens up broad new vistas of research into the nature, cause and treatment of hearing disorders."

"TUBERCULOSIS: The chemical compounds, streptomycin and glycerine combination, show promise in the therapy of human tuberculosis. The new antibiotic, cycloserine, also shows promise in TB treatment."

Dr. Edward Blomquist, tuberculosis expert of the U.S. Public Health Service, told the Senate Appropriations Committee that in 1956 the death rate of this disease dropped 10 per cent and new cases by 3 per cent.

Total TB deaths were 15,000 and new cases 75,000.

Dr. Blomquist warned the latter is not the whole story on this disease. He estimated there are 100,000 "unknown" TB cases. The Public Health Service is trying to uncover them through its mobile X-ray clinics.

More Trouble—The Senate is far from finished with the heavily-battered U.S. Information Agency.

In addition to slashing $53,000,000 from its budget, Senate Democratic and Republican leaders now propose to shift USIA from an independent agency to control of the State Department.

That's what Senators Lyndon Johnson (D., Tex.), and William Knowland (R., Calif.), have discussed with Senator Theodore Green (D., R. I.), head of the Foreign Relations Committee. He's all for this backstage plan, and is ready to sponsor a bill to put it into effect.

But Secretary Dulles is sold to the idea.

Sounded out about it by Green, the State Department head displayed marked reluctance to having anything to do with the embattled USIA. Dulles also evidenced little enthusiasm for its Director Arthur Larson.

When Senator Green slyly pointed out Larson "is a modern Republican," that drew a stiff rejoiner.

"Mr. Larson is a personal friend of the White House," said Dulles. "He is no protege of mine. I have no desire to add him to either my staff or responsibilities."

Social Whirl—Free-loading isn't all an unalloyed joy. This leading Washington indoor sport has its hazards. Chief among them is over-eating which, in the opinion of an indisputable authority, is a major occupational hazard of the Capital, particularly among members of Congress. That's the considered opinion of Admiral George Calver, long-time physician of Congress. Says the veteran doctor: "They attend far too many banquets, cocktail parties and other affairs than are good for them. Some of them are beef-steaked to death. I've had them tell me they've had to eat as many as five steaks dinners a day." . . . No steaks were served as Laos Ambassador Ourot Souvannavong's big garden party celebrating his country's Constitution Day. But there was a lot of other fancy food, including seafood Newburgh with rice, chicken ala king, huge platters of cold cuts, piles of pastries, mounds of ice cream, and limitless champagne and other liquors.

Strange social doings are going on among the Iron Curtain diplomats. They have suddenly broken out with a flurry of parties. Czechoslovakian Minister Petrzelka gave a reception, curiously in honor of a holiday celebrated by the Republic which the Communists suppressed. Rumanian Minister Brucan showed a film made in his country, with an elaborate buffet and drinks for guests, and Soviet Consular Sergai Striganov did the same thing at a cocktail party, where genuine Russian caviar and vodka were available to all in unlimited amounts . . . British Minister and Mrs. Coulson were prize winners at a big costume ball with attires depicting the Volstead Act and Repeal. He was Volstead and she was Repeal. Both wore empty liquor bottles, corks and other symbols of those periods.

Right Job Awaits You If You Learn To Look

By Anne Heywood

Too many of us make one big mistake. Whether we're job-hunting, buying a dress or choosing a book, we don't investigate enough. We don't "try on" enough. Instead, we let ourselves slip into the first thing that comes along.

In fact, I know people who put more effort into planning a two-week vacation than they do in planning their entire career.

One big step that is overlooked is the matter of reading about various jobs and kinds of work.

Know Nothing

We know about a few types of work—what our fathers, older brothers, sisters and friends do—but beyond that, we don't know anything. Yet the vocational world is full of a number of things. We might find that the exact right job for us does really exist.

The public library is a gold mine of information about fields where the grass is plenty green.

Another thing too many of us forget is that education is sometimes available on special grants or scholarships. I know young people who can't afford further education and so they give up and settle in a routine job. Yet all the time, if they only knew, there are organizations offering special scholarships to people just like them.

Took Advice

"I finally broke down and took your advice," one young woman writes.

"We live in a rural area. About twice a month we drive in to the city—quite a long drive. My mother, sisters and I usually spend the two days shopping or at shows, but this time I broke down and spent my time in the library—and did I learn plenty!

"Among other things, I looked up the book you mentioned called 'Your Opportunity' and I found that I can get a scholarship to study art."

Plan For Success

If you want to succeed in your job, do resolve to put a little effort into planning it.

Your Library Is Gold Mine of Information

Do get acquainted with your public library, your local bookshop, the good magazines. Start a scrapbook of articles from your newspaper and magazines, articles about different kinds of jobs. Whether you're in school, or in a job you dislike, or a mother planning to work some day when the children are grown, begin a career scrapbook.

If you are interested in scholarships, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of this newspaper, and I'll tell you about the book, 'Your Opportunity'.

Memos Of A Girl Friday

Dear WW.: Yankees' star Billy Martin says thanks for inviting him with you on the town when you thought he looked lonely the other night. But since the Copa incident he must be in bed my midnight or suffer a fine. He said the headlines made his mother cry. That he feels awful for Hank Bauer, who was helping him celebrate his birthday. I asked Billy if he heard anyone making an insulting remark about Sammy Davis Jr. who was doing his act at the time.

Martin said someone (not at the Yankee table) called Sammy a "Mau-Mau" but that nobody wanted to make a fight out of it. . . . The Mickey Cohen-Mike Wallace comments about the Los Angeles police heads will probably raise premiums on libel-insurance again. Things seem to have changed somewhat since you were called "too controversial."

The friends of Nina Dyer (former wife of Baron Thyssen) believe her romance with Sadruddin Khan (the Aga's youngest boy) is over. He's been with his mater in Southern France since early April. Nina's been in Paris all the time and he didn't bother to see her, they say. . . . I hear the late Marquis de Portago's very wealthy mother may send bundles of money to the families of those killed when the Marquis lost control of his racer. . . . Linda Christian's other admirer, Belgian tennistar Philip Washer, flew to Madrid to console her.

The Earl of Carnarvon-socialite Ann Hunt wedding plans apparently have hit a snag. The date was May 1st . . . After almost ten years apart Duke Ellington's No. 1 trumpeter (Shorty Baker) and Mary Lou Williams will make it legal. . . . It will be a Fall wedding for Nancy Bovard and David Wilson. His grandad was U. S. Ambassador to Mexico. . . . Bruce Cabot, a long time abroad, is expected to return with a bride. She may be Italian actress Olga Villi, a former Countess. . . . Lorraine Manville's most attentive beau (since she filed for divorce from Chas. Baxter) is Cornelius Dresselhuys, her former husband.

Refugee Problems Aired At Red Cross Meeting

HENRY BLOSS, veteran National Red Cross director, explained the Hungarian Refugee problems as confronted his staff at Camp Kilmer during the Monroe County Chapter's annual meeting last night. The meeting was held at the Stroudsburg YMCA.

Bloss revealed that 361 planes and five ship loads or over 32,364 Hungarians were handled during the admission of refugees to this country through Camp Kilmer.

On the biggest day 2,500 were handled, complete with clothes, food and lodging. At one time during the course of refugee admission 150 pairs of shoes were issued each hour.

But, as Bloss pointed out it wasn't always that way.

The first plane that arrived carried 55 Hungarians. There was no clothing available and most of the refugees had no clothes under overcoats they wore.

But, soon the ball was rolling and $200,000 was spent for underclothing alone. Used clothing weighing 375 tons was donated and 180 tons was quickly handed out. Thousands of shoes were donated.

Thirty-one Red Cross chapters in New Jersey presented volunteers. The volunteers numbered between 150 and 175 per day and the overall total was 1,526. The hourly total was 89,770. Sewing machines were donated and operators donated their services.

Shortwave radios were used for communication, as telephones in the camp were completely swamped.

Bloss pointed out that Red Cross International has set up a new system in Geneva, Switzerland. A card on each refugee will be placed on file at this location.

William Wells, chairman of the Monroe County Chapter, briefly told of the recent national convention he attended in Washington, D. C.

Other officers are Russell Harmon, vice chairman; Mrs. Walter Dreher, vice chairman; Allan Keiper, vice chairman; Mrs. Jeanette Batory, secretary, and William Hawn, treasurer.

Directors are William Fisher III, Mrs. Adan Bohner, Mrs. Clifford Heller, Mrs. Harold J. Pine, Mrs. Florence Warner, William Thomas, Mrs. Donald Brown, Charles Bensinger, toastmaster of last night's dinner meeting, and Earl J. Slutter. Mrs. George Hauser is an honorary director.

Judge Fred H. Davis, director of Monroe County Civil Defense, spoke briefly, as did Harold Buttman, administrator of the regional blood center in Wilkes-Barre, during the course of last night's meeting.

It was officially announced that LeRoy Mikels, head of Monroe County Bloodmobile Unit, would be in charge of the Wilkes-Barre Center in the future. The Wilkes-Barre Center includes 19 counties and 34 chapters.

Miss Sarah Detrick, Red Cross field representative, also spoke briefly.

Rev. Charles Parks delivered the invocation.

Jurisdictional Dispute Hits Printing Press Erection

A JURISDICTIONAL dispute between two unions yesterday halted erection of The Daily Record's new printing press at its new building.

The new Record plant is located on the corner of Broad and Lenox Sts. in South Stroudsburg.

Daily Record General Manager Horace G. Heller said last night that the newspaper has an agreement with Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, to erect the new press in the new building.

Heller said Goss assigned an erector who is a member of the International Association of Machinists to erect the press. Slightly more than a week ago the erector began local operations, Heller said.

Millwrights who are members of local Carpenters and Joiners Union claimed jurisdiction, citing a precedent established locally in another situation, Heller said. Erection of the press proceeded on schedule until yesterday morning the general manager reported.

Representative

Heller said that Emerson Stanton, local business representative of the International Association of Machinists appeared at the plant and claimed jurisdiction in the work.

Stanton cited and showed an agreement between the Carpenters and Joiners and the IAM on an international level which set forth that machinists have jurisdiction over printing press erection, Heller said.

Millwrights relinquished jurisdiction and left the job, the manager said. Heller said that The Daily Record "was and is wholly in agreement with the jurisdictional agreement between the two unions."

The newspaper general manager said that The Daily Record has requested that the IAM secure "local IAM union members to proceed with the work." Stanton advised Heller that he (Stanton) was sent to the job by an official of the IAM in New York City.

Heller said that The Daily Record is now awaiting word from Stanton on assignment of local IAM workers which will help meet the moving date of the newspaper into its new modern plant in the very near future.

All other union crafts at the plant are functioning normally, the general manager said.

Atmosphere Hampers TV Reception

TELEVISION viewers who have been complaining about interference in their signals needn't blame the trouble on their sets necessarily—nor even on their neighbor's buzz saw.

The trouble—a usual occurrence at this time of year—is due to atmospheric conditions which cause freakish reception on some of the channels.

Locally, radiation from the station in St. Joseph's, Mo., is interfering with the reception on Channel 2, New York, and sometimes on Channels 3, 4 and 5.

Meeting

The Pocono Electronics Assn., a group composed of 15 television servicemen, discussed the interference at their meeting Wednesday night. They reported receiving complaints from a great many people who thought the trouble was in their sets.

The set owners reported the TV picture was garbled and voice transmission from one or more stations in the West broke into broadcasts from New York and Philadelphia stations.

Television signals which ordinarily would pass off into space are reflected back to earth by a layer of atmosphere set up by sunspots and other conditions, according to TV servicemen.

Two Firms Announce Merger Plans

WIND GAP—Supradur Manufacturing Corp. merged yesterday with Seagrave Corp. of Columbus, Ohio in a $6,000,000 stock-trade deal.

The merger was made official in Jersey City yesterday afternoon, according to J. Lawrence Davis, Supradur attorney and secretary-treasurer of the Wind Gap Company.

Davis will be one of three Supradur board members who will be seated on the merged board of directors. The others: John H. Steiner, New York City, Supradur board chairman and K. Fred Netter, president of the Wind Gap Company. Seagrave will have four directors on the board.

Fire Equipment

Seagrave is the nation's largest manufacturer of complete motorized fire equipment. Supradur is a manufacturer of asbestos cement shingles. There was no immediate announcement of the part Supradur is to play in the large corporation which results from the merger.

The business transaction was made through a mutual trade of stocks by stockholders in both firms. Seagrave gains a controlling interest in Supradur through the deal.

Now
U.S. Savings Bonds
pay you higher interest
faster!

IF YOU'VE always bought U. S. Savings Bonds for their rock-ribbed safety, their guaranteed return, the way they make saving easier—you've got one more reason now!

Every Series E United States Savings Bond you've bought since February 1, 1957, pays you a new, higher interest—3¼% when held to maturity! It reaches maturity faster—in only 8 years and 11 months. And redemption values are higher, too, especially in the earlier years.

About your older Bonds? Easy. Just hold onto them. As you know, the rate of interest a Savings Bond pays increases with each year you own it, until maturity. Therefore, the best idea is to buy the new—and hold the old!

The main thing about E Bonds, of course, is their complete safety. Principal and interest are fully guaranteed. They are loss-proof, fire-proof, theft-proof—because the Treasury will replace them without charge in case of mishap. Your Savings Bonds are as solid as a rock—backed by the full faith and credit of the United States.

Maybe you already know about Savings Bonds—as one of the 40 million Americans who own them today, or as one of the other millions who have used Bond savings to help pay for new homes, cars, or college educations, or to make retirement financially easier. If so, this is familiar territory to you—you know there's no better way to save.

But if you're new to the game, find out about Savings Bonds and what they can do for your future. Ask your banker, or check with your employer about the automatic Payroll Savings Plan that makes saving painless and easy.

Selected Issues Show Market Gains

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Selected issues made some good gains today but the stock market on average eased again within the area of the new 1957 highs it established recently.

It was the third straight day that the market had settled back after setting its latest new high for the year.

Overall, it was the decline in leading rails which was chiefly responsible for the market's drop on average. The carriers were affected by a fall in carloadings and some reports of lower earnings.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped a minimum 10 cents to $151.40 with the industrials unchanged, the rails down 50 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Volume totaled 2,110,000 shares compared with 2,060,000 yesterday.

Of 1,147 issues traded, however, declines substantially outnumbered gains by 525 to 351. New highs for 1957 contracted to 41 compared with 57 yesterday and new lows totaled 30.

Among the 15 most active stocks gainers totaled 10 and there were only 2 losers. Three were unchanged.

Getty Oil was the day's most active stock, up 2⅞ at 33¼ on 61,500 shares.

Prices were irregular on the American Stock Exchange where volume totaled 930,000 shares compared with 970,000 yesterday.

Corporate bonds drifted lower. U. S. Government bonds declined in over the counter dealings.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

As I am writing this, late on Thursday afternoon, the testimonial dinner for my mother, Dr. Nina Mae Price, is still a secret — but certainly the most complicated, difficult and confusing secret ever kept.

The dark and devious dodges by which we tried to make sure she kept the date open and had something proper to wear were complicated enough, but things really began to get confused yesterday as, one by one, her whole family started arriving from the four points of the compass.

Of course, if we could have kept them apart it wouldn't have been so difficult. But when you've only 48 hours to spend with your mother it's more than flesh and blood can stand to spend 12 of those hiding from her.

So they all came, each with a different excuse, none of them very plausible. The feebiest excuse of all was the spur-of-the-moment one Carol came out with. Having ridden all afternoon and all night from Chicago, she wasn't at her most alert, I'll admit.

Even so, her airy: "Oh, Bobby wanted me to come with her to her hula lesson," must have established some sort of nadir in alibis.

One of the most welcome things about that dinner for Dr. Price must have been the fact that it dispelled her conviction, which had been growing stronger with every passing hour, that her whole family was going stark, staring, raving mad in wholesale lots.

Schoolroom Cowboys Taste The Real Thing

Climaxing their unit on study on Cowboys, the first grade of the Campus Laboratory School at the college this week visited the Clarence Edinger Pony Farm outside of Stroudsburg.

There the new vocabulary they have learned in school was put to use, as they watched the saddling and bridling, mounted to the saddle and guided the ponies with the reins. In the saddle room they inspected the equipment needed for the care of horses, and learned there is a lot more to being a cowboy than guns and holsters.

Afterward they went into the pasture to see the ponies graze. Later they talked over their experiences with Earl Edinger and Thunder and Prince and Major in a real corral.

Miss Elva Rowe was student teacher for the unit with Mrs. Helen Little, supervisor. Mothers who drove the children on the field trip were Mrs. Thomas Smith, Mrs. Walter Stauffer, Mrs. Kenneth Lockard.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Just one month ago today I celebrated my birthday—which means the head of our cosmetic department has a birthday today. Happy celebration, Pearl Walters!—and aren't you lucky that you're still too young and attractive to need all those lotions, creams, wrinkle eradicators, and coverups that you sell the rest of us . . . In the column of yesterday, I mentioned Bean Bag bathing trunks for boys, but neglected to tell about McGregor's reversible suit, that's black and white checked on one side, and all black on the other. It's a stunner, at 2.98, in sizes 12 to 18 . . . Ever hear the story of the cross-eyed bear named Gladly? I haven't either, because Dottie Dunn forgot all but the first line when she started to tell it. In any case, Gladly is my new nickname for reasons only a very few of us understand . . . If your thoughts are in the stratosphere fashion-wise, you'll be wanting to know about the stratosheer batistes utilized by Youtheme in the manufacture of their adorable waltz length gown and duster ensembles. These wash in a swish of suds, dry in the time it takes to blink an eye, and require absolutely no ironing. Priced at 10.98, in sizes 32 to 38, they are of pretty shadow check pattern in blue or pink. Waltz the use of looking any further for becoming sleep attire? Here it is! . . . Margie Barnes has one of the loveliest charm bracelets I've ever seen, and it represents quite an investment, being of 14K gold. Particularly intriguing is the oddly shaped sphere of brown filigree behind an airy "cage" of gold. At first glance, I thought the darker "metal" was bronze, but Marge tells me it isn't. It isn't even metal. It's hair—one of the truly lovely examples of work done years ago when a lock of hair was a precious thing used in many decorative ways. Funny, but these days about the only time hair is precious is when you begin to worry about losing it! . . . The Barnes jewelry department of our store carries many interesting charms for both gold and silver bracelets. One that is particularly cute is the little gold typewriter with the movable carriage. Its price is forbidding however, because it is so truly precious. Sterling silver charms are, of course, much less expensive, and both the Barnes and Wyckoff departments have an excellent assortment. One bracelet in our Wyckoff section is priced at just 3.00, complete with a dangling scroll representing a diploma. A delightful gift for the graduate, and one upon which the date could very easily be inscribed. Other charms include toasters, baby carriages, tennis racquet and ball, sweepers, skates, alarm clock, movie cameras, bird houses, and beautiful St. Christopher medals. Prices begin at 1.80. Both Betty LaBarre and Joe Barnes tell me it's almost impossible to keep the little baby shoes and medallions in stock these days, for there is a great vogue for them among grandmothers as well as young people. Many grandmothers have a disc with the name and birthdate of every child, or with baby shoes bearing the birthdates. Margaret Hunter, of our personnel department, is one grandmother who wears two tiny silver shoes with dates—but they dangle from a pretty bar pin. (Incidentally, there's room for about two more on that pin, Audrey!) . . . Carol Smith, the cute collegian who works part time in our candy department, tried on the finery for one of her big year end dances at a special fitting Wednesday afternoon in our Wyckoff alteration room. We don't need to look any further to guess who'll be Belle of the Ball, she was THAT bouffant and bewitching . . . Some of those key chains in Bea Gorgy's department are entrancing. From them dangle little boxes of leather or suede, containing varied things such as miniature shaving sets, sewing accessories, and cigarette holders. They are priced from 1.00 to 2.98, and made in Italy. I like those carved ivory key chain decorations too—particularly the sea horse. These are just 1.00 . . . The past few days have been mighty busy ones for Shorty Widmer, thanks to all the inscribing he's been doing on presents honoring Dr. Nina M. Price. Not only did he engrave a beautiful gold compact, and a sterling silver dish, but he scripted the Business and Professional Woman's citation, which was later framed in gold by Walter Logan. Our gift wrapping center was busy too, and did an absolutely gorgeous job on the hat box, containing her exciting new blue chapeau. We love the idea of giving Dr. Price a hat—she's just feminine enough to adore 'em.

Stations For Rain Gauging Become Part Of Civil Defense Activities In Monroe County

WILLIAM B. Drawbaugh, U. S. Weather Bureau representative, working in conjunction with the Monroe County Council of Civil Defense, met members of the rain gauging stations of the county in a special meeting held in the County Civil Defense Headquarters last night. Headquarters are in the Monroe County Court House.

Memberse of this special service group are working to perfect a rainfall gauging system throughout the county in an effort to provide accurate data in case of severe rains and emergency conditions and to correlate the findings with nearby counties through the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Drawbaugh, introduced to the group by Jack Anderson, Eastern Area CD director, explained the details of the service and introduced Sumner Bossler, assistant Monroe County executive director, who will collect all county data, correlate the findings and phone in the data to the U. S. Weather Bureau at Allentown.

Drawbaugh pointed out that these precipitation surveys will be especially valuable both to Monroe County Civil Defense and to the U. S. Weather Bureau during those seasons of the year when rainfall through melting snow or excessive downpour may become hazardous and destructive of life and property.

The instructor described the nature of the Monroe County watershed and went into detail concerning the technical preparation of a weather precipitation index and details of reportage.

Gauging stations have been approved and will go into service at once from the following stream points:

Upper Brodheads—C. Marshall Reese, Barrett Township CD director; Paradise—Edwin C. Besecker; McMichaels — Michael Vianello; Paradise at Henryville —George Raish; Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg—Bossler, and Swiftwater, Jack Anderson. Other points will be added from time to time.

Cadillac

Friendly Welcome For a Total Stranger!

He's a "stranger in these parts"—just passing through on his way to some distant destination.

But you wouldn't know it to look at the wonderful welcome he receives as he brings his day's travels to an end.

For high on the hood of his motor car rides the beautiful crest of Cadillac—and the truth of the matter is that hospitality just seems to follow a new Cadillac wherever it goes.

No man, you see, is ever without standing when he is in command of the "car of cars".

For it is a recognized fact that Cadillac owners—representing though they do such varying fields of endeavor and such widely separated parts of our world—also have a great deal in common.

Invariably they are people of marked personal achievement—who have won for themselves a considerable measure of respect and recognition in their chosen work.

In brief, the driver's seat of the Cadillac car is the traditional dwelling place of the world's leading citizens. And people everywhere have found it safe to assume that whomsoever they behold at the wheel is a worthy member of this distinguished company.

Of course, this is but one of the satisfactions of Cadillac ownership . . . in addition to inspiring beauty, luxurious Fleetwood coachcraft, superlative performance and extraordinary value.

Have you as yet taken the wheel of a new 1957 Cadillac? If not, then you should visit your Cadillac dealer and spend an hour on the highway before another day goes by.

He'll be waiting for you with a "friendly welcome" of his own!

RALPH O. BURROWS, principal of East Stroudsburg High School who served as chairman of PIAA District 11, was faced with a tough problem the other day. It was a situation that may come up only once in a lifetime, but it was one which needed immediate attention.

The problem developed over a controversial 100-yard dash in the Class B, District 11 Track and Field Championships last Saturday, and concerned who was the winner and who ended in second, third, fourth and fifth places.

The official ruling of the judges made Santo of Summit Hill, first; Derby, Summit Hill, second; Macenka, Nesquehoning, third; Stump, Schuylkill Haven, fourth, and Dougherty, Coaldale, fifth.

And by the results of this race, Nesquehoning eased out a 50 to 49½ win over Coaldale.

But on Sunday a photo appeared in an area newspaper and "showing" the winner Santo not the victor, but deepest among the five contestants.

Meet Referee Joseph Mammana of Easton High was quoted as saying that there was an error among the judges and that the race should be run over.

Burrows, however, ruled that the decision of the judges would stand.

The East Stroudsburg school administrator quoted Section Nine of Rule Three of the track code. It follows:

"The judges of the finish have jurisdiction over the order in which the competitors finish. The head judge shall designate the places to be picked by the judges. At least two judges shall be assigned to each place to be picked and should serve at opposite ends of the track.

"The judges shall pick one more man, than the number to score. Each judge shall write the number or numbers to place winners selected by him on a card and hand same to the head judge without consulting the other officials. Their decision as to the order in which the competitors finish shall be final and without appeal (unless authorized motion pictures of the finish are used)."

Basing his verdict on the track code of the PIAA regulations, Burrows said the decision of the judges as to the order in which the competitors finished shall be final and without appeal (unless authorized motion pictures of the finish are used.)

From here, there was no other answer for Burrows to give. The ruling is clear and concise. But someone pulled a boner further down the line and it will be unable to be rectified.

The question was brought up that the photographer who took the photo which caused all the furore may have been at a bad angle, causing the misconception of the distance. We looked at the picture and feel, that wherever the lensman was he couldn't have gotten the winner Santo so far away at any angle.

Santo wasn't the winner in this particular race. We wouldn't hazard a guess who was. But it is a shame that by the race, a school was deprived of victory by a miscue on the field of battle.

Burrows had no alternative but to abide by the PIAA regulation. After all two wrongs still don't make a right, and that will happen if the situation arises again.

Quick Pickups—Pocono Manor's head golf professional Jack Cuttle entertained the sports members of the area press yesterday at the beautiful layout atop the Poconos.

The athletic tub thumpers enjoyed luncheon, golf and supper. Present were Nels (Bud) Weiser, Allentown Morning Call; Sid Freeman, Scranton TV caster; Bob Patton, Wilkes-Barre Independent; Jimmy Calpin, Scranton Tribune; and Jim Riley and yours truly, Daily Record.

John Crandall, general manager of the Manor, welcomed the boys.

A big-time, four-day professional and amateur golf tournament is slated for the Shawnee Country Club July 11, 12, 13, and 14.

Top pros from the area as well as par-busters from afar will vie in the classic which is under the direction of Harry Obitz, head Shawnee pro.

'Battle Of Boroughs' Starts At 8 p.m. At Giffels Field

THE PROBABLE batteries for today's game. For Stroudsburg High, Jimmy Snyder, pitching, and Don Stopp, catching. For East Stroudsburg, Curt Hickman, pitching, and Bob Herman, catching.

That's the expected mound and behind the plate setup for the renewal of the "Battle of the Boroughs" under the lights today at Gordon Giffels Field, starting at 8 p.m.

At game time, however, the Mountaineers' mentor, Jerry Stulgaitis, may switch to Ron (Super) Phillips, while Cavalier boss Jack Kist may give the nod to Evan Reese.

Reese and Phillips are right-handers, and Snyder and Hickman throw from the port side.

Probable Lineups

Eastburg will probably line up with Bob Stine at first; Bob Kassner, second; Johnny Hindman, short, and Corky Smith, third. In the outfield will be Frank Lupin, in left, Helmut Gartner, center and either Charley Lupin, Dale Metzgar or Bob Plattenburg or Hickman, in right.

Stroudsburg will probably counter with Charley Cramsey, first; John Schoonover, second; Barry Tretheway, short and Ron Stopp, third. In the outer garden, Dick Cramsey will be in left, Bob Pugh or Phillips, center, and John Hallock or Pugh, right.

The Mountaineers will enter the rivalry-studded tilt with the better record. Stroudsburg in 11 outings this year came out on top seven times. In the Lehigh Valley League, however, the Mountaineers only posted a 3-4 log.

Eastburg ran up a 3-5 record against Lehigh-Northampton League opposition this season and over-all posted a 3-8 mark.

Eastburg LL 'Paint Day'

"PAINT DAY" of the East Stroudsburg Little League will be observed tomorrow at the Eastburg LL park.

President Jack Kist announced last night that a call for all persons to lend a hand in painting the park fence and bleachers has been extended to all interested persons. He urged that persons wishing to cooperate in this project report at the park at 1 p.m. tomorrow with brushes and pails. The paint will be furnished by the LL association.

TWIN CITY TV, an entrant in the Monroe Softball League, will be among the many entries in the Allentown Hill Top Softball Tournament in the Queen City tomorrow and Sunday.

Twin City will meet Easton in its first test, tomorrow, starting at 10:20 a.m.

Team sponsor Ernie Fellencer announced last night that the team will leave from the Twin City Stroudsburg store at 8:30 a.m.

The classic is a Class A Tournament with teams from Allentown, Bethlehem, Palmerton, Jim Thorpe and Nesquehoning dotting the entry list.

Twin-Boro Ladies Fete Tomorrow

THE LADIES Twin-Boro Bowling Banquet will be held Saturday, May 25th at Johnnies Inn, Mt. Pocono, Pa. at 6:30 P.M.

The Bartonsville Hotel team, winners of both the first and second halves, will be honored.

Redlegs Up Lead

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—Tom Acker stifled a budding St. Louis rally in the ninth tonight and the Cincinnati Redlegs whipped the Cardinals 6-2 and increased their National League lead to two games over idle Milwaukee. Don Gross had allowed the Cards only three hits until he weakened slightly in the final inning.

Barrett Nine Grabs Lead In Pocono LL

BARRETT ROTARY took over first place in the Pocono Little League last night as they checked in with their second straight victory. Barrett Rotary defeated Pocono Lake Lions, 9-6, while Tannersville suffered its first loss at the hands of Barrett Lions, 7-5.

The two-time hitting of John and Norman Ryan and L. Shinnen paced Barrett Rotary to victory. L. Shinnen also got credit for the hill win.

Barrett Lions outscored Tannersville in the first two innings, 5 to 4, and then held the spread with singletons in the fourth and fifth.

Jimmy Berger pitched and batted his mates to the win. Ruehlman with 3-for-3 led the losers.

Besecker's On Top In Softball Loop

BENNY Hiller's three-run triple and Stumpf's clutch single powered Besecker's Diner into first place in the Monroe Softball League last night as the Dinermen humbled 579th Signal Co., 16-5, at the Stroudsburg playground field.

It was the fourth win in five starts for Besecker's and enabled them to break its tie with Nebel's Market and Twin City TV, each of whom own a 3-1 log.

Besecker's had little trouble from the start scoring in every frame but the fifth. Dr. Gail Fegley chalked up the mound win, scattering five safeties. He also led his mates at plate with three infield hits. Miller also got a single besides his run-producting three-bagger.

Marty Acker, who spun out when he had a good chance of winning last week's feature, will also be back, along with Freddie Adams, of Kutztown, who also was well up among the leaders in the opener. Smokey Dengler and Jack Rudy, of Reading, will also be back this Saturday night.

Races Slated For Sunday At Nazareth

NAZARETH—A 50-lap feature race—which means 25 gruelling miles of driving at wide open throttle—will be headlined this coming Sunday, 2:30 p. m., at the stock car races in the Nazareth Fairgrounds.

Promoter Jerry Fried, in announcing the season's longest feature event race of 1957, said a handsome purse will be offered to the many drivers who compete from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The 50-lap feature will go on after hard-running preliminaries, including three 10-lap heats, and a 12-lap consolation race.

The races, rained out last Sunday, gave the car owners a good opportunity to work over their racers, in preparation for the May 26 thriller.

The three outstanding drivers this year—Otto Harwi, Ken Wismer and Blackie Reider, all of Easton—will be joined by a redhot group from New York, including Dan Mitchell, Middletown, and top names from New Jersey like Bud Olson, Jack McLaughlin, both of Paulsboro; Carl Van Horn, Belvidere, and Art Scott, Chester.

Inspect Track

In advance of the race, the Nazareth track crew will make a minute inspection, recondition the raceway where necessary, and take all safety precautions. This means a close look at the curves and straightaway, as well as the concrete walls on the turns.

The racers have been hitting at record speed clips in the early season races, and this Sunday will give the endurance racers a chance to present the ultimate in competition.

Recent appearances of Marty Acker, Charley South, Sunny Strupp, Mose Moore, and others from distance tracks, has caused the veterans drivers to use a heavy foot in their individual races.

The 50-lap feature event will present 22 of the fastest cars appearing during the preliminary heats.

Nausbaum Team To Bowl Today

ELS NAUSBAUM bowling team of Easton will bowl today in the Pocono-Slate Belt $40,000-plus tournament at Barrett Bowling Center. The first roll off of the keglers vying for the top money in the actual and handicap divisions is 8 p.m.

Tulip Leaves Shouldn't Be Cut Until They Die

AFTER TULIPS have finished blooming, it's a great temptation to cut the green stalks and leaves down, but this is a poor practice. Tulips must always be allowed to die down each year, and their leaves shouldn't be cut until they have yellowed naturally. Green leaves are making food for the bulbs for next year's growth.

Should tulips be lifted yearly? There is much discussion on this, pro and con. We lift ours every three years, but there's no doubt that you get better results by lifting each year. This takes a lot of time and labor.

Sometimes all that comes up from a tulip bulb is a single large leaf, with no flower stalk. This is a sign that your bulbs need separating. Late summer or early fall are best times to dig and divide the tulips. Don't dig them in spring, as there's no need for storing them in the cellar during the summer months.

Gardners report considerable mice activity this year. Moles have been accused of eating bulbs, but actually this trouble is due to mice. These rodents love tulips and if your tulips failed to grow, they may have been eaten by mice. Yearly spading of the tulip bed will break up mice run ways and help prevent loss of bulbs.

As a final word, if you want to put annuals in the tulip bed, don't spade the soil too deeply as you may cut the bulbs. Annuals are usually shallow-rooted, and the roots won't disturb the bulbs.

Chinese Chestnuts: Some readers have told us their Chinese chestnut tree has died out, and we've been asked if it was due to the blight which has licked our own native chestnut trees. I lost one of my own chestnut trees this year. The Chinese chestnut as known in the trade is extremely variable since it may come from almost any part of temperate China. It varies somewhat in its resistance to the blight although all forms are susceptible to winter injury and following this the blight fungus will attack them. In other words, a tough winter will weaken the chestnut trees and pave the way for the over-present blight fungus. So, while the chestnut is blight resistant, it can be rendered susceptible due to winter injury.

Question Box

N. B. of Stroudsburg: "Sometime back you wrote about an annual called Datura (Angel's Trumpet) being good for a spot where other plants don't do well. A friend told me this flower has poisonous seed pods and should not be planted, since children might eat them. Is this true?

This is true, but it's nothing to worry about. If we took all the poisonous plants from our gardens we'd have nothing left but a few weeds and a few flowers. The Datura we mentioned is in the potato and tomato family. One cannot become alarmed over the poisonous nature of this plant because there are dozens and dozens of others just as bad, and which we've lived with for years. For example, many deaths have resulted from eating potato sprouts. Rhubarb leaves are toxic, as are parsnip leaves, daffodil bulbs, lily of the valley, Laurel leaves, and many others right in your own back yard, including such favorites as Foxglove, larkspur, Christmas rose, etc.

A good many household products if swallowed are equally as poisonous, if not more so. The list includes insecticides, detergents, cleaning fluids, shoe polish, deodorants and other items that are apt to be around the house, with no special warning labels.

I understand a bill is being introduced that will require a poison label on toxic products, with the antidote on the package. This might be the best answer to poisonous plants although they aren't as dangerous as many would leave you to believe.

Mrs. E. T. of Easton: "I have a pocketbook plant (Calceolaria) from Mother's Day. Please tell me how to care for this."

This item likes a rather cool window, but needs plenty of light. It's natural for the pouch-shaped flowers to shed from time to time, but a dry soil will hasten this. Be sure to give the plant plenty of water at all times. Indoors the flowers are often lighter than plants grown in the greenhouse. This is often due to poor light and high temperature. After the plant finishes blooming, cut it back to 6 inches and grow it on in a sunny window. It will usually flower again, although most gardeners prefer to discard it after blooming.

June Tax Installments Mailed

ACCORDING TO DISTRICT Director of Internal Revenue R. P. Brownell, about 35,000 individuals in the Scranton District are now receiving bills for the June 15 installment of estimated income tax.

Brownell emphasized the importance of making prompt payment of the amounts due within the time stated on the bill, and pointed out that the law carries provisions for application of severe penalties for failure to make proper reports and timely payments on account of estimated taxes. However, since June 15 falls on a Saturday, the due date has been extended to Monday, June 17.

Second Quarter

The June payment represents the second quarterly payment of estimated taxes. Taxpayers who have not filed or paid estimated taxes for the first quarter, which was due April 15, should take immediate steps to file at once to minimize their liability for penalty.

The third and fourth quarter payments for the 1957 estimated taxes are due on Sept. 16, and Jan. 15, 1958, Brownell said.

VFW Poppy Days-Thursday, Friday and Saturday May 23rd, 24th and 25th

BUDDY POPPIES SYMBOL OF A NATION'S DEVOTION

Emblem of the dead and dying on the fields of Flanders in 1918, the V.F.W. Buddy Poppy has been glorified by the American people as their "Flower of Remembrance."

Down through the years, ever since 1922 to be exact, the V.F.W. Buddy Poppy has given to all patriotic citizens—rich and poor alike—their chance to honor the dead by helping the living.

The annual sale of Buddy Poppies serves two great purposes. It fosters the beautiful custom of wearing these little flowers, once each year, in mute salute to the memory of America's honored dead; it provides the funds that are required to serve the daily personal needs of the nation's disabled and needy veterans, and their dependents.

There are millions of unfortunate veterans—as well as widows and orphans and dependent parents—who are unable to qualify for government aid.

Why? Mainly because the government itself—in time of war—has never been able to maintain accurate records on the physical welfare of each individual in uniform.

Through no fault of their own, these veterans—many of them the victims of the lingering effects of exposure, shock and malnutrition—are unable to qualify for help from their government because their service records fail to confirm the origin of their ailments.

Your support of the annual sale of Buddy Poppies makes it possible for the Veterans of Foreign Wars to maintain its great, nationwide program of free rehabilitation service to the millions of needy veterans.

Every dime or dollar which you may give in exchange for a Buddy Poppy goes into a special sacred fund—one that will be spent for nothing but the relief and rehabilitation of America's disabled veterans, and their needy loved ones.

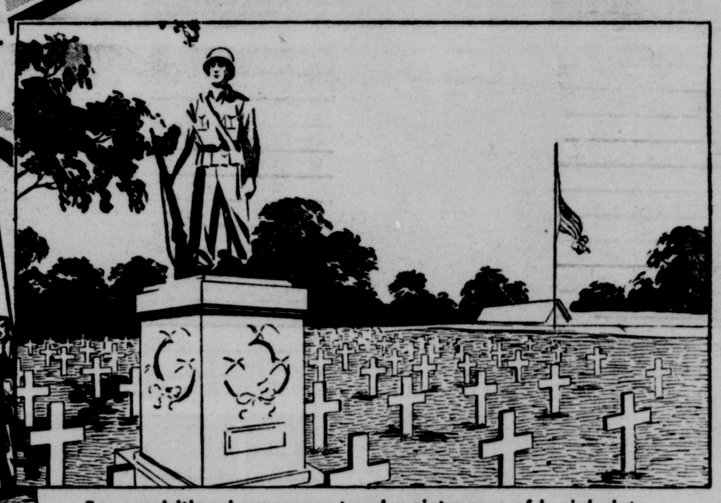
Remember the dead who are buried near the battlefields where they died, or in our cemeteries here at home. Let's do them honor by helping the living!

For the aid, relief and comfort of disabled and needy veterans, their dependents, or their widows and orphans.

For hospital entertainment, for needy veterans and service patients.

For rehabilitation, welfare and service work, including liaison service with the Veterans Administration.

For maintenance or expansion of the V.F.W. National Home for widows and orphans of veterans at Eaton Rapids, Mich.



For acquisition, improvement and maintenance of burial plots and the decoration of graves of veterans and servicemen.

For necessary expenses for military funerals of deceased veterans.

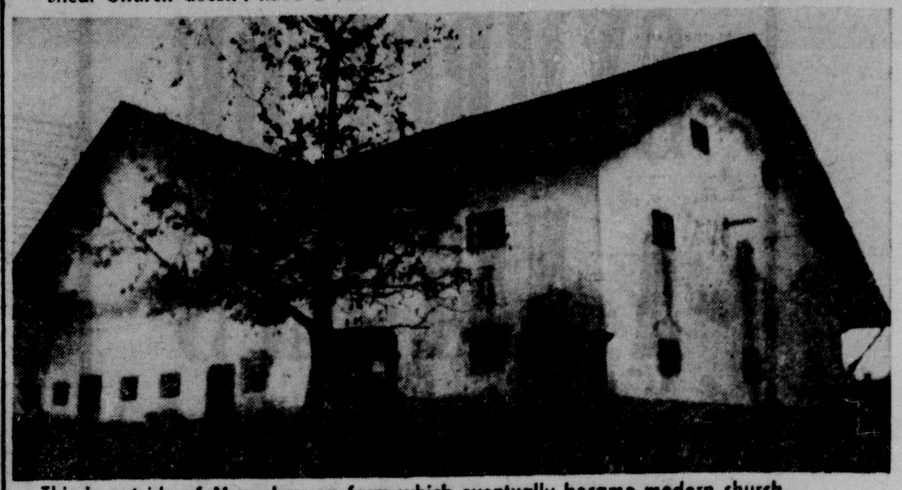
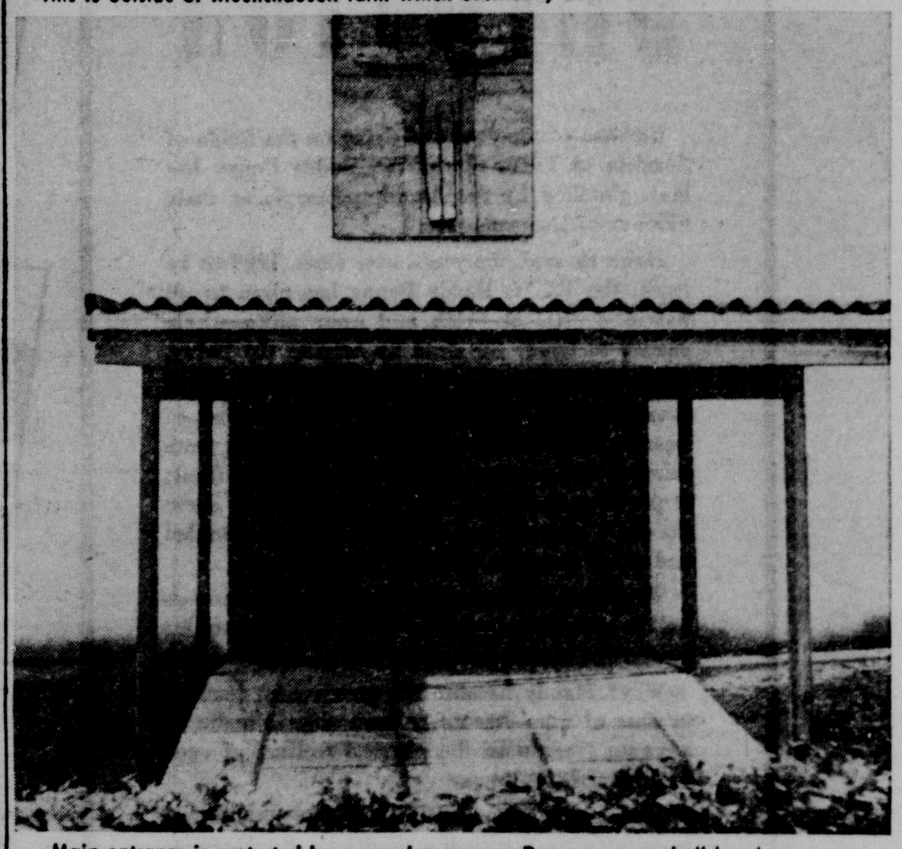
OLD FARM, NEW CHURCH

A BARN dating back to the year 998 is, paradoxically, now the most modernistic church in Austria. The Catholic church in Salzburg-Parsch represents a remodelling of farmhouse and barn. Three Austrian architects and several artists teamed up to change the building. Outstanding feature of building is new roof. All light entering the building falls through large glass windows onto the altar. The church is entered through low arched section that formerly was a cow shed. Church doesn't have a tower. It does have church bells near entrance.

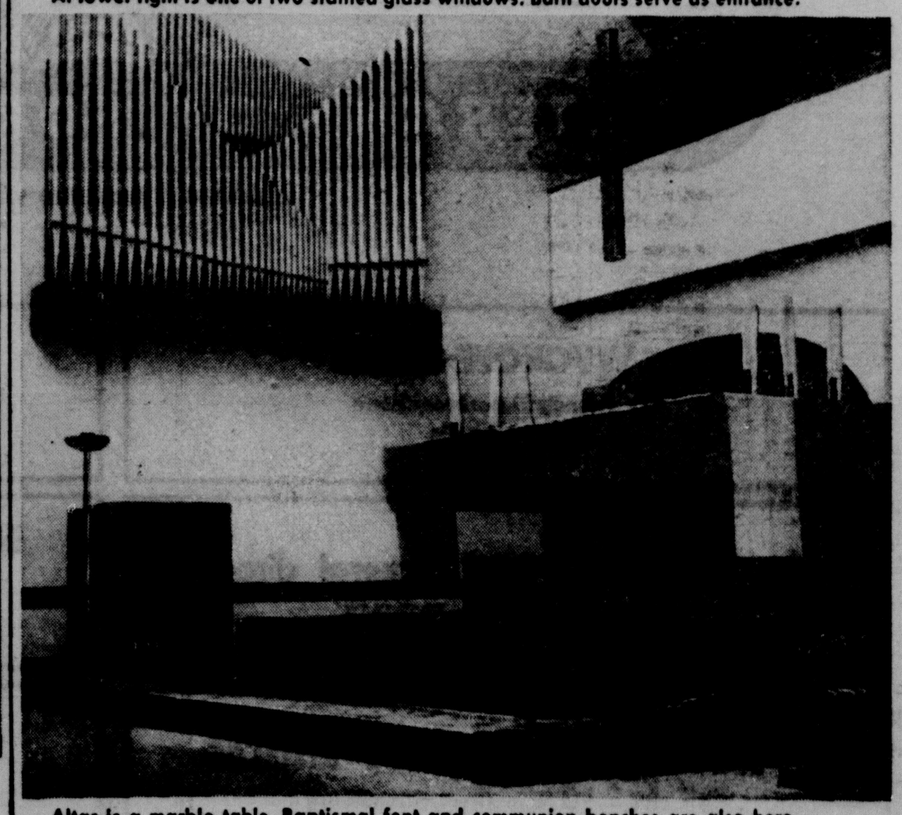


This is outside of Muenchausen farm which eventually became modern church.



Main entrance is protected by a wooden canopy. Doors move on ball bearings.

At lower right is one of two stained glass windows. Barn doors serve as entrance.



Altar is a marble table. Baptismal font and communion benches are also here.

Legion Calls For Action On Immigration

(Special To Daily Record)

WASHINGTON, May 23 — The American Legion this week issued an extraordinary call to its nearly 4,000,000 members and Auxiliary Unit members, for national action to defeat all moves in Congress to weaken or repeal U. S. immigration laws.

A special message in the Legion's "Firing Line," bi-monthly policy bulletin, instructed more than 30,000 Legion Posts and Auxiliary Units to take specific steps in the national drive. At the same time, 4,000 phonograph records and 200 tapes for radio stations carrying vocal instructions issued by the National Commander, W. C. "Dan" Daniel, were sent to key Legion Posts.

Both the "Firing Line" orders and the instructions issued vocally by National Commander Daniel, directed Post and Auxiliary Unit members to write, telegraph and telephone Senators and Congressmen that they want no tampering with the protection afforded by the U. S. Immigration and Nationality Act (McCarran-Walter Law). The dual written and verbal orders executed a resolution adopted unanimously by the Legion membership at their 1956 annual convention.

Campaign

"The 1957 Communist campaign to utterly destroy American immigration law has moved into vicious, well-financed and effective high gear," warned the Legion's special bulletin.

"The simple but clever Communist tactic of persuading well-meaning liberals, and the public, that the Red drive against the Immigration and Nationality Act is no Communist move at all—that it is simply a program of wise and moderate amendments — has fooled some legislators again. These legislators have reintroduced in Congress seemingly moderate proposals which, if adopted, would actually wipe out every protection now in the law against unrestricted, unscreened, almost unlimited foreign immigration into the United States. This situation is dangerous in the extreme."

Advocates of repeal and amendments badly weakening immigration law came so close to winning in 1956 that amending bills were actually adopted by the Senate, the "Firing Line" reminded Legionnaires. Unless American voters tell Congress how they feel about immigration protection, said the message, patriotic legislators can no longer hold off the enemy. A blunt Legion analysis outlined the grim crisis of 1957 in Congress:

"Only a spontaneous, powerful expression from the voters, directed to their legislators by mail, telegraph, telephone and personal visits, can avert crushing Free World defeat in this crisis. Otherwise, Communism's contrived and organized clamor may induce congressional action permitting—rather, inviting—an entire dissatified world's underprivileged to come and settle permanently in the United States.

"Never before have the minority pressure organizations been so united or determined to destroy major security law. Nor have they heretofore been so quietly powerful."

Show Tickets On Sale At Newfoundland

NEWFOUNDLAND — Tickets have gone on sale for the personal appearance of Rusty and Doug and The Music Makers in the local school auditorium, Friday, May 31, according to an announcement by Clayton Northup, faculty advisor to the Greene-Dreher-Sterling chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

The star unit of The World's Original WWVA Jamboree, Wheeling, W. Va., will make its first northeastern Pennsylvania appearances in nearly a year on the local stage under the auspices of the local vocational agricultural organization.

Northup announced that those attending will be treated to four full hours of entertainment beginning at 8 p.m. with a one-and-one-half hour stage show, followed by dancing, both modern and old time.

Poll

Rusty and Doug, in addition to their Jamboree affiliation, are heard on coast-to-coast radio on "CBS Saturday Night Country Style" and on Hickory records. Named "the most promising country music duet" by the juke box operators of America in a recent "Cashbox" poll, the youthful pair are living up to that honor if the frequency with which their records are played on area radio stations is any indication.

Rusty and Doug burst on the country music scene about three years ago with a recording of "Hey, You There," which rose to number three in popularity in the nation. Since that time their music, most of which is of their own composition, has been accepted with each subsequent record release, with their latest, "Money," another hit parade choice.

Their stage repertoire includes the music peculiar to their native bayou country of Louisiana — "Cajun" — as well as the traditional American folk music and the modern "rock and roll."

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Generous influences for most trades, professions, occupations. Keep in the swim of things; show your capability but shun arrogance. Be cooperative.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—This should, and can be a progressive, productive and happy day for you and your interests. New matters are equally favored with familiar and unfinished business. Work well so that you may enjoy the week-end.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—A day to stimulate your good intentions and good deeds. Both practical and artistic matters, as well as mental work favored; you are slated for refreshing gains, benefits, advancement.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You can atone now for periods when you were lackadaisical, lacking in ambition. Double your efforts, finish incompleted tasks, start new projects, get things in line generally. Profits are indicated.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Abundant reasons here for really hard striving, in profession, trade, scientific work, research, skilled workmanship, writings, AND many important "little" tasks.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Influences similar to those of Gemini. Fine aspects for launching new ventures, augmenting present holdings and completing tasks already started. Enjoy the week-end.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You can now further your own and your family's interests; also aid associates, employers in their projects. Let nothing vex you; keep looking ahead and working for bigger gain. Pleasant going!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—No "ifs or buts" about this heartening day. It calls for action—profitable action—and good humor, too. Advancement and lasting benefits can be secured through an intelligent program.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Don't be satisfied with mediocre attainment this fine planetary day. If you think and act BIG, you'll get at least better than "good" returns. You are brave, capable; put forth this type of effort.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Whatever your line of endeavor (and this includes homemakers) generous influences should inspire you to exhibit your finest qualities and most saleable talents. You are especially favored now.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Read, heed Sagittarius. The new, the unique, the daring in enterprise encouraged and stimulated now. Don't be idle when all the influences urge you to DO and ACHIEVE.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—New ideas, original methods encouraged now. Your special interests and activities you like should progress satisfactorily. DON'T retire, go forward.

YOU BORN TODAY are strong, able, a delightful personality; interesting, helpful, generous—a vital person. At times you are misunderstood, underrated because you often talk too much to cover up a really sensitive nature. Don't fear the censorship of others, they can encourage and enjoy your accomplishments. Confide in family and trusted friends but be wary of those who flatter you to further their own desires. Cultivate your many talents; they can be of great value later in life. Birthdate: Victoria, Queen of Eng.

Atomic Union Approves Pact

DENVER, May 22 (AP) — The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union is approving new contracts on the basis of a 6 per cent increase in pay plus additional benefits, President O. A. Knight announced today.

He said the increase averages 18 cents an hour, up 16 cents an hour in pay and other benefits totaling at least an additional 2 cents. He said the pay boost brings the average basic hourly wage to $2.81.

Other benefits include four weeks annual vacation after 20 years instead of after 25 and an increase to eight in the number of paid holidays with double time and a half for those worked.

Companies which have agreed to the 6 per cent wage increase and improvements in holidays and vacations, at one or more plants, Knight said, include Gulf, Texas Co., Phillips, Warren, Magnolia, Carter and Atlantic.

Western Poconos Plan For Season

BRODHEADSVILLE—The final meeting for members-at-large of the Western Pocono Vacation Assn. was held this week at Brodheadsville Inn.

Attendance, according to Harry Sulthaus, secretary, was good and all old business on the agenda was closed satisfactorily for the current vacation season.

A nominating committee consisting of Floyd Altemose, Graden Praetorius, Wittold Tilwick, Rudy Muller and Joe Casaer was named by the president. This committee will report on elective names at the fall meeting which will be held in the west end September 9. Regular officers and board of governor vacancies will be held then at the November election.

New Edition

The new edition of the WPVA directory will be distributed to association members some time this week. It is reported to contain a directional map, resort listings and advertisers guide.

Following the meeting A. C. Beers of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service spoke on the new Pocono area training school which will get under way as a free service at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. Under the PSES plan local residents may avail themselves of the service either to learn a waiter's or waitress' trade or to hire trained personnel to work at the many vacation resorts in the Pocono Mountain area.

Monroe County Unit Provides Service For Cancer Patients

A SERVICE program for cancer patients is a vital part of the work of the Monroe County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

The mid-year activities report issued yesterday by the cancer society revealed that 17,874 cancer dressings were given to patients from Sept. 1 to May 1.

"Dressings that otherwise might cost a family hundreds of dollars were given free of charge to 23 patients," reported Mrs. Kenneth Eshback, Service Chairman.

"Cancer patients require many kinds of dressings and large numbers of them. The American Cancer Society is able to produce these dressings for less than two cents each because they are made by volunteers who sew and pack the materials to medical specifications."

Mrs. Eshback said that white goods used for dressings are donated by local residents to the Monroe County Unit. Seventy-five women meet once a month throughout the year to make them. Mrs. Eshback is chairman of the dressings group.

"If it were possible to put a dollars and cents value on all volunteer work, I'm sure the figure would be extremely high," Mrs. Eshback declared.

Mrs. Edward DePuy reported that the service program lessened the economic burden of cancer in 24 homes where needy patients received 270 visiting nurse service calls.

"Comforting articles from our loan closet aided 10 patients and three patients who could not afford medications received them through the Monroe County Unit."

In the state-wide service program of the American Cancer Society, 806,262 dressings were provided to 1,708 patients and 15,491 visiting nurse calls were made on 1,146 patients.
